Farm Organizations Call To Renew Over-Order Premium

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) heard testimony to renew the over-order premium paid for Class I milk at a hearing held this Wednesday in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture building.

Three organizations representing Pennsylvania dairy farmers testified to renew the over-order premium established by PMMB, which expires on June 30. All three groups, which include the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB), Pennsylvania State Grange, and Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Marketing Association (MACMMA), called for a new over-order premium to be established that would expire in six months.

The current over-order premium is $1.20 per hundredweight for all Class I milk produced, processed, and sold in Pennsylvania. Both PFB and MACMMA called for the new over-order premium to be established at $1.00, while Pennsylvania State Grange requested that the current premium of $1.20 to be continued through the end of the year.

Joel Rotz testified on behalf of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. According to John Bell, who works with Rotz at the Farm Bureau, an over-order premium set at $1 would be sufficient to maintain current marketing conditions.

"We looked at the projected prices for the next six months derived from BFP future prices and at the current trend in which both Pennsylvania milk production and cow numbers are increasing," said Bell. "Based on the projections and the increasing trend, we felt a slight adjustment downward would be appropriate."

Bell cautions that farmers should remember Class I milk price is only one factor that figures into what the farmer sees on his or her milk check.

"If Pennsylvania is out of line

Myers Named SCPCA Cattleman Of The Year

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

DOVER (York Co.) — Dallastown beef producer John Myers was recently named Cattleman of the Year by the South Central Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association (SCPCA).

Myers received the honor during the association's annual dinner and business meeting at the Dover Fire Hall. About 200 members and guests of the beef industry organization attended the event, which included a beef industry trade show.

"Cattleman of the Year is awarded annually to one of our members or associates who shows leadership with our different organizational functions through the year," said outgoing SCPCA president Terry Shearer, Abbottstown. "John marinates all the meat for our three annual beef-sandwich fundraisers held through the year."

Shearer said, "Since we sell about 10,000 sandwiches at the three events, preparing the meat is a vital part of the fundraisers' success."

Myers was unable to attend the award presentation, but accepted his recognition plaque at a later date.

A rotating memorial trophy which is awarded in the name of Myers' late father, Jack Myers, went to Hope Long, Airville, who exhibited the supreme champion beef heifer at the York Fair. The Jack Myers Memorial Trophy is presented each year to the exhibitor of the York Fair youth division who wins this honor.

Also recognized during the meeting was Southern School District elementary teacher Crystal McGhee. The SCPCA sponsored McGhee to attend the

Pastoral Lancaster County

The quaint feel of spring in Lancaster County can be found everywhere you go. Cows rest in the meadows, streams flow gracefully, and Amish farmers with their teams work in hope of another good growing season.

The Pennsylvania Ag Statistics Service said farmers are actively plowing, and planting oats, potatoes, field corn, and sweet corn. In addition, many farmers were fixing fences, getting machinery ready to run, ordering supplies, spreading lime and fertilizers, hauling manure, spraying herbicides, and pruning trees.

Oats are emerging in many districts and are in good to excellent condition. Corn and potato planting began, but it was too wet to plant in most areas. Barley is heading ahead of the norm and alfalfa and other hay crops are growing well with some weevil problems reported. Pasture growth is slow in many areas and prohibits intensive grazing.

Fruits and vegetables continue to progress around the state. Much of the fruit crop is now in full bloom. Vegetable farmers are beginning to plant sweet corn, cabbage, onions, lettuce, peppers, radishes, and tomatoes. Many farmers are still waiting for soil to dry before beginning the planting season.

The Gettysburg Battlefield FFA was one of 31 youth programs to receive grants as part of Pennsylvania's Agriculture and Rural Youth Grant Program. FFA Adviser Ron Sollenberger, along with agricultural students Candace Flickinger and Bobbi McCollough, will use the grant money to develop an environmental/earth center on the 125-acre school property. ATLANTA, GA.
APRIL 28, 2000

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, APRIL 28, 2000. FEDERAL-STATE

Prices ranged from unchanged to generally lower when compared to last week's values. Demand was limited and unaggressive as some traders were on holiday schedules. However, some improved interest was noted on yolks at the lower price levels. Offerings were usually reported as adequate for current needs. The undertone was mixed and unsettled. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending April 22, 2000 were 14 % less than last week, and 33% less than a year ago. Shell egg suppliers were fully adequate to ample for immediate needs.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
Wed May 03, 2000

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

Daily National Grain Market Summary

Drought concerns continues to be the major factor for higher grain and soybean bids Wheat 2 to 6 cents higher. Corn 2 to 7 cents higher.

Sorghum 8 cents higher. Soybeans 6 to 7 cents higher.

Spring planting for all commodities is underway and dry weather fore- casts are driving grain and bean bids moderately to sharply higher. Some hope for scattered moisture has been forecast for this weekend in the Midwest. However, traders worry it will not be widespread enough to ease concerns. Active fund buying was also noted in corn pits today. Export sales continue slow this week, despite Egypt's substantial overnight wheat purchase and Taiwan's soybean order.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

MAY 8-14, 2000

THREE CHILLY SAINTS, MAY 11, 12, 13.

JAMESTOWN SETTLED

May 14, 1607, marked the arrival of the Virginia Company charter settlement in Jamestown, Virginia. A group of 500 or so followed Captain John Smith to the New World. Smith stayed two years to help establish the British settlement. By 1609, however, he had moved along to other explorations and, by winter's end, the Jamestown crew had dwindled to 60. Winters were hard, supplies scarce, relations with the Algonquians unstable. By one account, at least, the "idle aristocrats and ne'er-do-wells" that came to settle Jamestown didn't have what it took without Smith's leadership.

The Building you want.
The Lease you need.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 35 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated deductions: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow.

First: Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost.
Then: Call your Telmark representative for your financing.

OPINION

Not That Much More Important

Did you have any feelings of exhilaration this week, like a dozen high-tailing heifers that have just found a hole in the pasture fence? But you didn't know why you felt this way?

It could be you were experiencing a psychological reaction to Tax Freedom Day that came and went on Wednesday. May 3, 2000 has been declared the day when the average American taxpayer has earned enough to pay for his or her government—federal, state, and local.

The Tax Foundation, an independent Washington DC group follows such things and notes that since 1992 the total tax burden has grown markedly. And while state and local taxes have grown somewhat, the lion's share of the increase has been the rapid growth of federal tax collections.

Of special interest to farmers will be the figures that put the tax bite into perspective. Americans will spend more time working to pay their taxes than they will spend working to provide food, clothing, and shelter combined. For food alone, Louis Moore, Penn State professor, ag economics, says we spend about 10 percent of our income. This means citizens need to work only about 38 days out of the year for food but they need to work 124 days for taxes.

Sure we need government, just like we need food. But government isn't that much more important.

Now Is The Time

To Develop A Learning and Quality Initiative

To be successful in business today you need to develop a culture for your business.

Recently, I came across several initiatives one of the county's leading agribusinesses has developed for their company. I believe these initiatives should be the part of the culture of all farms.

The Learning Initiative states "We must continually increase our learning ability as individuals and as an organization. We need to develop leaders to take our expertise to the next level of excellence.

Our success depends upon individuals with high emotional quotients (EQ) working and sharing together. EQ are individuals who make sound decisions, admit their mistakes and put what is best for their peers and the organization ahead of their personal agendas."

The Quality Initiative states "We must embrace quality in all that we do. We believe our customers have two perceptions. We have a quality product and quality permeates our organization.

However, quality and efficiency must go hand in hand. Greater accuracy and accountability, as required by the customer, will result in the need for higher levels of quality control.

To Understand The Food Chain

Developing alliances with customers and suppliers that form a food chain will be one of the most important decisions farmers will have to make over the next couple of years.

Farms will need to be an integral part of the food supply chain. We will need to challenge ourselves to understand the needs of our suppliers and our suppliers' suppliers, our customers and our customers' customers.

Farmers will need to partner with those who enhance the strategic advantage for the entire food chain of which they are a part. Then and only then will value be added to the entire food chain and enhancing the bottom line of that chain.

In the process, farmers must align themselves with suppliers and customers who think the way they think and focus on the same core values they do. The business of tomorrow must be able to assemble the strengths of many partners to become far more nimble and responsive.

To Develop An Environmental Initiative

One of the county's leading agribusinesses has established an initiative to be the leader in meeting environmental concerns.

Stewardship is the individual's responsibility to manage his life and property with proper regard to the rights of others. They recognize the need to accept the responsibility and ownership for providing solutions to environmental problems.

Science is on our side. Through research and future discoveries, we will find different methods which will help solve the environmental challenges at hand.

At the same time we, as an industry, need to do a better job educating the consumer of our stewardship efforts and our desire to improve the land and the environment. We will need to document our efforts in order to demonstrate our efforts are real and scientifically sound.

Good stewardship is a commitment, a commitment which will lead us to the inevitable conclusion that one must develop and promote sustainable agriculture.

RAINING ON YOUR OWN 'PARADE'

Background Scripture:
2 Corinthians 1 through 2.
Devotional Reading:
2 Corinthians 1:3-11.

Churches often do have aromas. My first full-time pastorate would always have the aroma of chocolate during Lent and Easter — the by-product of weeks of Easter candy-making by ladies of the church. Some churches I remember by their rich aromas of highly-polished pews and vinyl cushions. In the Middle East I remember the churchly aromas of incense. Other churches always smelled like restaurants and still others were musty like long-neglected attics.

Some of these aromas were pleasing; some of them not. It is often suprising to me in talking with people who no longer attend church that their remembrances of church are colored by aromas usually not pleasant or inspiring.

That aroma may be figurative or metaphorical instead of literal, as in 2 Cor. 2:14b,15: when Paul says "...and through us spreads the fragrance of the knowledge of him everywhere. For we are the aroma of Christ to God among those who are being saved and among those who are perishing..." Paul is not speaking of a physical aroma, but an inner one.. A STENCH THAT REPELS Many churches give off a most distressing aroma when we do not handle well disputes and differences within the life of the church. These divisions are like an unpleasant aroma, indeed a stench that repels people who might otherwise be attracted to the Christ. Currently, that is the effect of the various divisions and schisms with Christendom, the 'people of God,' lay and clergy alike, washing their dirty laundry in public so that it is evident that, despite what we may profess, our churches are not about sacrificial love and grace, but contention and bitterness. Note, when I speak of 'divisions,' I am not thinking of the many and various denominations, but of the conflicts that nurture hostility between the members of Christ's body.

Several mainline denominations—United Methodist, Presbyterian, and Episcopal—are facing schisms within because of the growing hostility between church members mostly, but not solely over the issue of homosexuality. However sincere and well-intentioned these conflicts may be, the disputes are turning away prospective disciples, branding the church with a disputatious image If the churches cannot find peaceful and constructive means to handle disputes, they really present the Gospel as a lie. This is just as true within congregations as within denominations.

How many people of the last two millennia have been lost to God in Christ because their dominating experience of a Christianity in a local congregation was one of knock-down, drag-out conflicts? I have experienced several churches of which it could be said they would rather fight than pray or perform sacrificial service.

IN-FIGHTING In 1 Cor. 1 and 2 we can pout together a picture of the in-fighting that took place in the Corinthian church. Apparently Paul had been shamefully opposed by a member of that congregation, causing Paul to delay his planned stop at Corinth from Macedonia. Though Paul postponed this visit for good reason, the postponement became another obstacle in relationships in the church, This was not some slight affront, for Paul speaks frequently of the considerable pain this man caused him. What saves the situation, however, is Paul's two-fold attitude. First, he refuses to take this dispute personally and forgives the offender. Secondly, believing that the man has been punished enough, he urges the Corinthian church to forgive and comfort him. Paul does not overlook what has happened nor does he close to his eyes to the painful result, but he commends the church to forgiveness and reconciliation. How often do we see that in out churches where doctrinal purity and procedural correctness are too often more highly valued than bearing the cross of loving service with and for other Christians? Paul calls to mind the well-known image of a victorious Roman general and his troops marching in procession along an avenue leading to a temple where an aromatic sacrifice will be offered. That is the analogy he presents to us. Let the church move forward as a triumphal throng and let its gracious, self-sacrificial behavior provide for our world "the aroma of Christ to God among those who are being saved and among those who are perishing." Let's not "rain" on our own "parade."

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

By Ken Bailey
Penn State University
April 28, 2000

USDA Releases 2000 Forecast

-Milk supply up 2.9 percent from 99

-Consumption up 3.1 percent from 99

-Class III price down $1.63 from 99

The dairy commodity markets were relatively stable this week at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Prices for barrels remained steady at $1.10 per pound, a full three cents above the support price. Prices for 40-pound blocks declined, however, from $1.11 per pound on Monday, April 24 to $1.0975 by Friday, April 28. The support price for blocks is $1.10 per pound. USDA reported strong demand for process cheese. People are firing up their grills and summer tourist areas are preparing for Memorial Day weekend.

Butter was a big surprise this week at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Grade AA butter rose from $1.06 per pound on Monday, to $1.08 on Wednesday, and $1.11 by Friday. USDA reports that many market watchers were surprised that butter would rebound so quickly after the Easter holiday period. Cream supplies are readily available and churning is seasonally active.

USDA's Economic Research Service (ERS) released a revised forecast for 2000 in the latest Livestock, Dairy and Poultry Situation and Outlook report. USDA used relatively conservative figures for the general economy, with Gross Domestic Product (GDP) growing at an annual rate of 3.8 percent. The Commerce Department's Bureau of Economic Analysis just released an advance annual estimate of GDP for the first quarter of 2000 at 5.4 percent. USDA may have to improve their forecast of the U.S. economy. USDA also forecasted an average inflation rate of 2.5 percent and an unemployment rate of 4.0.

USDA is predicting that milk production in 2000 will be 167.4 billion pounds, up 2.9 percent from a year ago. The number of cows on farms is expected to remain unchanged. Cow numbers grew significantly the first quarter of 2000 compared to the 4th quarter of 1999. However, cow numbers are expected to decline significantly throughout the year. Milk production per cow is expected to grow at an annual rate of 2.9 percent in 2000 relative to a year ago.

Thus USDA is expecting a major adjustment in the number of cows on farms beginning the second quarter of the year and continuing through the 4th quarter. Cow numbers are to drop from 9.186 million head the first quarter of 2000 to 9.120 by the 4th quarter.

Consumption of milk and dairy products on a milkfat basis is expected to increase 3.1 percent in 2000, slightly higher than the growth in the milk supply. Clearly this will result in lower stocks by the end of 2000. And, net removals of dairy products on a skim solids basis is to increase 21.5 percent in 2000. Most of this will likely be in the form of nonfat dry milk.

So what impact is this likely to have on milk prices? USDA is forecasting an average Class III price of $10.80 per cwt for 2000.

Kauffman's Orchard Twilight Tour Inspects Vertical Axis System

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

BIRD IN HAND (Lancaster Co.) — Tuesday evening Ken Kauffman, Kauffman's Orchard, exhibited a row of Crimson Gala apples on M-9 stock trained on a vertical axis.

Though it looks like an ugly tree, according to Dr. Rob Crassweller, Penn state pomologist, "we're more interested in just growing fruiting wood."

And getting the main attached to the pole and the central leader up to the top wire as quickly as possible, noted Crassweller, can insure top productivity for the orchard.

Kauffman, orchard manager, and several Penn State representatives spoke Tuesday evening to about 75 growers and agri-industry representatives during the Lancaster/York Fruit Growers' Twilight Meeting at Kauffman's Orchard near Bird In Hand.

Kauffman's family orchard includes Ken, the third generation, and several fifth generation members. The family manages 120 acres of fruit, including 70 in apples, 35 in peaches, and the remaining in plums, pears, and cherries.

Kauffman provided a comparison of several training systems, including a trellis system installed in 1995 and two rows of a vertical axis system installed in 1996.

The 8 X 15 trellis includes 360 trees to an acre. The vertical axis the best fruit.

To start, growers should obtain a feathered tree, or one with lots of branches, instead of a straight whip, Crassweller said.

Attach the main branch to the pole as soon as possible. The key is to "train" a tree right after planting to create one that will fruit well and hold up. Ties hold branches to the trellis wires running from pole to pole to keep the tree from twisting in the wind.

Crassweller also spoke about thinning chemicals and methods at the fruit meeting. An ideal time for thinning is when temperatures reach the mid-70s to 80s. This weekend could be a good time, with temperatures to be in the 70s and 80s through the region.

"This weekend the time is going to be ideal," said Crassweller. If temperatures are in the 60s, "you're not going go get the response," he said.

Kauffman also showed the group a concrete pesticide containment pad installed with the help of the Mill Creek Water Quality Project.

The pad is installed about 50 yards from a well water system. The idea of installing a pesticide containment pad "was appealing to us," said Kauffman, in light of orchard water quality concerns.

The simple design allows the containment area to hold 600 gallons of water. "We're concerned about the environment and our neighbors," said Kauffman. The cost of construction: in the range of $3,000-$3,500.

Dr. Jim Travis, Penn State fruit pathologist, noted that apple scab can overwinter in leaves that settle at the bottom of trees. "There's always a little bit of scab in an orchard," he said, holding a clump of leaves he picked up near a tree. Though the material will rot by midsummer, after a winter, much of the material remains intact.

Travis noted that, at the lab, he has samples from some orchards that show heightened ma- system includes two rows at 5 ½ x 14, 600 trees to an acre.

The trees, properly pruned, allow the Kauffman's to "look forward to a good crop," Kauffman said. This year Kauffman claimed it took an hour to trim the two rows. About 390 trees are on a vertical axis system.

Kauffman uses the system to "get early production and good production with minimum input," he said.

About 75 growers and agri-industry representatives toured Kauffman's Orchard near Bird In Hand Tuesday evening during the Lancaster/York Fruit Growers' Twilight Meeting. Presented were pest control strategies and an update on the plum pox virus. Photo by Andy Andrews

The simple vertical axis concept involves taking two or three of the heaviest branches to the upper half of the tree. The central leader is trained occasionally to allow larger branching at the tree "top." The tree size can be controlled, leaving only the most vigorous wood to create turity of the spores as the warm weather increases.

Fire blight is always a concern, especially during a warm spring. But this cool spring has kept fire blight pressure very low. Cold conditions during the "wedding" period have shown no infections.

If blooms remain at the end of the branches, they can be infected with fireblight, especially if the temperatures hit 80, Travis noted. A commercial growth regulator is useful to actually control fire blight.

Powdery mildew can be a problem because of the state's mild winter, though there has been no substantial pressure, said Travis. Time of infection is bloom to petal fall at temperatures higher than 50 degrees.

Wet weather actually inhibits the mildew. But a dry, high humidity year could be the time for the infection to build up.

Greg Krawczyk, Penn State fruit entomologist, said that orchard managers must know what is in their orchard — what the insect pest is — before they can control it.

Using traps, growers can readily identify pests and come up with control solutions.

Now, growers should look to see if they have the green peach aphid. The pest is almost everywhere, Krawczyk said. "There is a high probability you have it in your orchard," he said.

Organophosphates are available to control pests such as the oriental fruit moth, certain aphids, and other pests.

Jim Travis spoke about how testing is under way to control the plum pox virus (PPV). All stone fruit in the state, except cherries, is being sampled. A video detailing the PPV education and eradication effort was shown.

Though it looks like an ugly tree, according to Dr. Rob Crassweller, Penn state pomologist, "we're more interested in just growing fruiting wood."

More information about the sampling is scheduled to be published in the next issue of Grower & Marketer, a section of Lancaster Farming, May 20.

Myers Named SCPCA Cattleman Of The Year

Ag In The Classroom program last year, an agricultural information and educational seminar for teachers. She reported on the value of the program and its benefits to her as an elementary school educator.

Speaker for the after-dinner program was Pat Anderson, Dover, whose humorous presentation focused on being Pennsylvania Dutch.

Four directors were elected to three-year terms on the board. New Directors are Tim Livingston, Dover, Kathy Wise, Spring Grove, and Emerson Knaper, Dallastown. Terry Shearer was re-elected to a three-year term.

During the business meeting, Dan Gross, Manchester, was elected to serve as the SCPCA's board president. Vice-president is Terry Shearer; Kathy Wise is secretary; and Roy Fuss, Dillsburg, is treasurer. Directors have tentatively scheduled the 2001 meeting to be held at Dover on the evening of the third Tuesday in March.

EPA Approves Protein

WASHINGTON, D.C. —The Envrionmental Protection Agency (EPA) gave its approval to a protein product that switches on a plant's natural defenses against disease and insects. The first-of-its-kind protein is viewed as an alternative to chemicals.

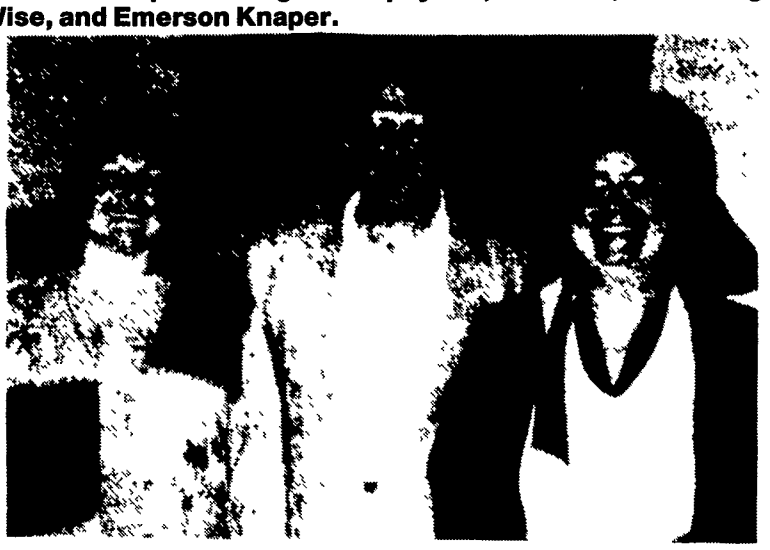
The protein, produced from genetically engineered bacteria, has been shown in field testing to increase yields for tomatoes and peppers by up to 22 percent and make plants more tolerant of drought.

Known by the trade name Messenger, it's one of a growing number of "biopesticides" that either trigger or strengthen plants' natural defenses or contain microbes that attack the pests.

Messenger, which EPA approved for registration April 19, is the first natural product that can turn on crops' own immune systems, Phil Hutton of EPA's Office of Pesticide Programs said Friday.

Another product awaiting EPA approval uses a chemical to trigger plants' resistance.

John Myers, center was recently named Cattlemen of the Year by the South Central Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association. With Myers are left, Dan Gross, new SCPCA president, and outgoing president Terry Shearer.



Speakers at the annual SCPCA program included Crystal McGhee, left, sponsored by the association to attend the Ag In The Classroom seminar, and Pennsylvania Dutch speaker Pat Anderson, right. Terry Shearer, center is the outgoing president.

Dairy Advisory Team Coordinators Save Time And Improve Problem Solving

Shelly Hershey, William Heald, Lisa Holden, Larry Hutchinson and Beth Moore

Spring has arrived and many producers want to accomplish more in a day. While some producers struggle with the issue of time management, many are finding new ways to solve problems more effectively with less time spent. Over ninety Pennsylvania Dairy Advisory Teams were started over the last four years to improve farm business while saving time.

What is a Dairy Advisory Team?

A Dairy Advisory Team works together with dairy producers to develop new ideas, set goals, and achieve a vision. The dairy producer chooses team members who best complement farm goals and are often selected from current advisors. Instead of meeting one on one with the producer, key consultants meet together to share information and improve farm goals. Teams often include veterinarians, lenders, nutritionists, cooperative field persons, accountants, partners, experienced producers, consultants, and business management experts. Teams typically have five members with more complex businesses having larger teams. One third of the dairy advisory team should be farm decision makers.

One team member serves as a coordinator who works with the producer to organize and facilitate team meetings. Team meetings are short, focused, and regular. Advice given by team members is always in harmony with the producer's goals, values, and constraints. While all team members contribute to and learn from the advisory process, the farm owner makes all decisions and determines all actions taken.

The Rewards Of Being A Team Coordinator:

Scott Hodgson, Sales & Nutrition Manager of Cumberland Valley Cooperative, has been a coordinator of two Dairy Advisory Teams in Pennsylvania. He is also a member of two additional teams. Hodgson says that advisory teams help him better manage his time.

"I meet with each team once a month and am always ready to make an additional visit or phone call if there is a problem between meetings. Teams help producers verbalize their frustrations and challenges. Making a difference on the farm requires the team to understand the problems and issues that the farm faces.

Having key consultants together around one table puts these problem issues into perspective," Hodgson said.

He has also benefited from networking with other agricultural business people on the team. "I am able to provide better services to my customers with the knowledge gained from team members." Scott enjoys the sense of accomplishment that he feels when teams exceed their goals.

The Role of the Team Coordinator:

The Dairy Advisory Team process includes data analyses, a SWOT analysis (strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats), problem solving, goal setting, action planning, monitoring, and continuous quality improvement. In order to facilitate this process effectively, the team must have a skillful coordinator. The team coordinator plays an important role during the team meeting as well as outside the team meeting. An effective coordinator keeps the team focused on the importance of increased productivity, profitability, and satisfaction for the producer.

During a team meeting, a coordinator keeps a meeting moving, and welcomes ideas from everyone, especially shy team members. Appropriately established ground rules encourage shared thoughts in a trusting atmosphere. A coordinator fosters this atmosphere by controlling dominating conversations and by helping team members listen to one another.

Hodgson says a great deal of information is gathered during a team meeting. "It is my responsibility as a coordinator to design a system of tabulating data and to share it with the other team member."

The system may be as simple as listing critical data, writing a short summary statement, making written action plans and reporting monthly progress. Action plans determine tasks, spread the workload among the team, and set deadlines. Major outcomes should be shared in written form to all team members after each meeting.

Together with the producer, the coordinator can use action plans to set an agenda for the next meeting. The team coordinator summarizes farm data and creates a "Dairy Advisory Team Meeting Report." Hodgson says that this meeting report includes information from all aspects of the farm and is a great tool to monitor team progress toward goals.

Who Should Coordinate?

Few people are experienced team coordinators. Talented people need to be identified and encouraged to develop their team skills. An enthusiastic person who possesses excellent communication skills and understands social dynamics makes a great team coordinator. The coordinator will use these interpersonal skills when facilitating a meeting of diverse personalities. Coordinators tend to be organized people with a service background: veterinarians, consultants, lenders, etc.

Plan For A Prosperous Roadside Produce Stand

With today's economy in agriculture, many farmers are looking for new income opportunities. One potential idea may be a roadside produce stand. Roadside produce stands can offer consumers freshness, quality, competitive prices and the nostalgia of visiting a working farm. As with any business venture, proper planning is critical to ensure success. Here are some important considerations:

Planning/Management - By starting your roadside produce stand small you can explore the market potential while reducing your risk in a large investment. Research your potential markets before the first seed is planted. A large investment of time should be expected in managing a roadside stand. Allocate your time according to importance. Some of the factors you may juggle will be labor, marketing, customers, production and inventory.

Location - One of the first significant decisions to make is the proper location of your roadside stand. Your stand should be located at a highly visible point along a heavily traveled road. A sign which is easy to read, simple, and has a distinctive color or logo is a wise investment. An adequate plan for ample parking is an important part in choosing your location. If a customer can not find a parking space, you will lose their business. Customers need to be able to safely enter and exit your parking area. Your township may require you to fulfill certain specifications in regard to location, signs and parking.

Production Challenges - Roadside markets need to offer a wide variety of multiple crops to satisfy the customer's demands. Managing the production of these various crops is essential with regard to irrigation, fertility and pest control. Quality of your produce is a second production challenge. Customers are accustomed to the perfect appearance of produce in grocery stores, and will expect this from your stand. A consistent supply of produce is a third production challenge to consider. Successive plantings can help provide a lengthened harvest season, but you may want to develop a business relationship with another local produce grower or wholesaler for an alternative in case a shortfall in your supply would occur. Post-harvest handling is a fourth component that will require special attention. Handling and storage requirements will vary according to the different types of produce, but quality is the essential thing to keep in mind with all of your produce after harvest.

Marketing - Developing a marketing plan for your produce stand will help you focus on essential steps in reaching your customers. This may be as simple as placing signs strategically on a road or running ads in your local newspaper. Collecting the names and addresses of your customer's will enable you to send them newsletters informing them on what is in season or recipes using your products. Another idea to incorporate into your marketing plan is providing daily harvest reports on your answering machine that customers can call.

Maximizing Sales - With your goal of selling produce in mind, when a customer enters your stand, you want them to purchase as much as possible. Cross marketing your produce is one option you can take. An example of this is selling salad dressing next to your lettuce or whip cream with your strawberries. Point of sale signage can be used with easy to read produce names and prices. Including recipe ideas beside your products may incline your customers to try new vegetables or fruits. Offering value-added products raises the prices of your products and possible sales. An example of this may be jams and jellies from your berry crop or pumpkin pie from your pumpkins.

Before beginning your roadside stand, speak with your local township officials to verify your township regulations. You should also contact your legal advisor and insurance agent about any special liability issues you could face. Also check with all other appropriate agencies to examine the need of any special permits or legal requirements that may exist. Your local county extension office is an excellent resource to utilize in planning for your roadside produce stand.

Don't miss the 2nd annual Farm-City Day on May 13 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the North Museum. Local agriculture businesses and organizations will be on hand to offer city dwellers a wide range of farming-related activities and demonstrate the integral role that agriculture plays in their daily lives. Please send your questions or comments about roadside produce stands or the Farm-City Day to Brent Landis at The Lancaster Chamber at blandis@lcci.com, or (717) 397-3531.

Question: Has reducing the age at first calving in our herd led to higher culling rates?

To answer this question I looked back to a time period between May 1997 and May1998. I wanted to see how many cows are still in the herd that calved for the first time then. During that time four years ago, a total of 178 new two-year-olds entered the herd out of the heifer-growing program. I calculated the average age at first calving for all 178 heifers to be 25.7 months. This has not changed significantly from two years earlier when the average age at first calving was 25.9 months.

Current DHIA test day records indicate that of these same 178 animals, 106 remain in the herd today. The 72 animals that have been culled from this group since May 1997 tally to 39.9% of the total. Just looking at these culled animals I calculate the average age at first calving to be 26.1 months. I looked further and found that the 106 animals that remain in the herd from this group today had an average age at first calving of 25.4 months. This is a bit younger than both the culled animals and the average for the whole group of 178. We have no reason to suspect that the age at first calving has had any influence on the cull rates.

One interesting fact that I came across while looking at these numbers is the culling rate of animals that never reached their second lactation. Of the 72 culled animals, 45 (63.4%) were culled sometime during their first lactation. This converts to a 25% cull rate of the first lactation animals during this single year. A lot of pressure is now on survivability of older cows just to maintain reasonable cull rates and not to lower cow numbers.

The economic pressure that these numbers put on the herd is anyone's guess right now. Some local sales report grade Holsteins bringing $1800 to $2500 per head. Even at a very conservative $1500 and beef cow prices of $600, a 40% cull rate will add $1.44 to the production cost of producing milk. To calculate this we take the market value of replacements and subtract the salvage value of cows and multiply that by the percent culling rate. We then divide this by the milk production per cow in hundred weights, ex. ((1500-600) X 40%) / (25,000RHA/100). We could reduce this replacement cost to $1.19 per cwt. milk if the cull rate was reduced to 33%.

Plug in your own numbers and see the cost of culling on your farm. One thing is certain, losing 25% of the animals that have not paid for their growing costs will lead to economic hardships or maybe worse. We need to search the reasons behind the culling rate in able to reduce it. How do we do that? Yes, you guessed it, RECORDS!!!

Chicken Survey: Each Person Consumes 81 Pounds Per Year

MODESTO, Calif. — The boom in chicken consumption in recent years still has room to grow, according to research released recently by the National Chicken Council (NCC) and the U.S. Poultry & Egg Association (USPOULTRY.)

American consumers are eating an unprecedented 81 pounds of chicken per person this year and plan to purchase even more chicken in the months to come, according to the survey which was released in conjunction with a food writers convention in Las Vegas.

California Poutlry Federation President Bill Mattos, who attended the conference, said chicken enjoys the highest per capita consumption of any of the major meats, with beef in second place at 69 pounds per person and pork at 52 pounds. The survey found that 89 percent of the respondents ate chicken at least once a week and some 36 percent consumed chicken three times or more per week. A net of seven percent indicated they planned to eat even more chicken purchased at supermarkets and food stores in the next 12 months.

Local Arabian Farms hold Open Barns

WEST GROVE (Chester Co.) - On Sunday, May 21st, the SE District of Pennsylvania Arabian Horse Association will again sponsor a day of fun and learning for all horse lovers. Prominent Arabian horse farms will open their farms and barns to the public from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Admission is free. Visitors drive their own vehicles from farm to farm at their own pace, spending as much time as they like at each farm.

The primary purpose of the day is to introduce people to the Arabian horse. The day promises to be fun and educational for all. There will be items of interest for the person contemplating buying their first horse and also the current Arabian enthusiast. The farms will provide exhibitions of Arabians performing in different disciplines.

In addition to exhibitions, visitors are provided ample opportunity to enjoy the Arabian up close and personal. A goal is for potential first-time horse owners to understand not only the versatility of the Arabian horse but more importantly, that the Arabian is a very intelligent, kind, loving companion, extremely loyal to its master, making it an ideal family or child's horse.

Visitors will have opportunity to see sons and daughters from some of the country's top stallions. Always a thrill is to see newborn foals frolicking in the pasture. This year, Glidden Arabians are expecting to have two foals arrive just a week or two before the open barn tour. New foals are always entertaining and are sure to be a big hit with visitors.

The local 4H-horse program is very active in this area. Because of past interest in this program, there will be people that are involved with the 4H program available to talk with parents and young people about the various local activities. In addition, multiple young people active in the 4H program will provide exhibitions, riding their own Arabians.

Two farms will open their barns this year. Both farms are easily accessible from route US 1 between West Grove, Pa. and the Pa./Md. border.

Drs. Janey and John Lee, both veterinarians, operate a breeding center that accepts sub-fertile mares. They are both willing to discuss with visitors the keys to their success in treating sub-fertile mares. Janey and John, owners of Sham Felek Arabians, are long time breeders of black Arabians.

Although Arabians come in all colors as one will see on the tour, a true black Arabian is perhaps the rarest color. Janey is very active on the local amateur circuit and encourages others to get out and enjoy their Arabians in this friendly environment, where competitors willingly help each other and the focus is more on having fun than on winning. Janey will be glad to discuss, with interest persons, how one becomes involved in the amateur circuit.

Glidden Arabians will focus visitors on the versatility and the kind, loving nature of the Arabian. Owners Ron and Bernice Glidden, raise each new foal with a lot of love and attention to enhance the human bonding instinct that is naturally inherent in all Arabians. They imprint all new foals to build the foals confidence and trust in its handlers. Ron and Bernice pride themselves on raising athletic horses with exceptional temperaments. The Gliddens plan to feature their Straight Egyptian foundation mare and show her get from different nationally known stallions and discuss why the Straight Egyptian is so sought after in a breeding program. There will be three generations of horses available to see how some traits are pasted on from generation to generation and how, by selectively breeding, one can enhance other traits to improve the overall beauty of the horse.

For those attending don't forget to bring the camera. It should be a fun day for all.

For a flyer with directions please call: Ron Glidden (610) 869 - 9878 or E-mail. GlidArab@AOL.COM.

IMPROVE YOUR PASTURES AND HAVE TONS OF SUMMER FEED AS WELL

STEP 1 Plow or Roundup about mid to late May. This way you can still utilize your spring growth

STEP 2 Fertilize and drill in one (or a blend of several) of the fine forages described at right or plant "Master's Choice" Silage Corn. Corn does very well where pasture is plowed down. This may also help break up disease or insect cycles in old pastures.

STEP 3 Graze or cut sorghum sudan at 24 in. (Approx. 40 days after seeding and every 30 days thereafter). Warning: never feed sorghum sudan when it's less than 18" tall.

STEP 4 About mid Sept. plow or disk in manure and plant a high quality Barenbrug Grass Legume Mix. Always take a soil test before new seeding.

Graze lightly in Nov.

WHEN FERTILIZED AND GRAZED PROPERLY, BARENBRUG FORAGES HAVE MORE THAN DOUBLED MILK YIELD PER ACRE COMPARED TO TRADITIONAL PASTURE.

CENTURY BROWN MID RIB (BMR) Hybrid Sorghum Sudan from Walter Moss Seed Co. . This premium forage has outstanding regrowth and tillering characteristics. The BMR trait increases the digestibility of the stems and reduces lignin by 40 to 60%. Because of this farmers will see increased milk production, or weight gains. The softer leaves and stems make for a more palatable feed.

MEGA GREEN Delayed Maturing Hybrid Sorghum x Sudangrass from Walter Moss Seed Co., is a very high yielding multi-leaf variety designed for hay or grazing. It has the potential to out yield silage corn. When left to grow it can reach heights of 12 ft. or more with out making a seedhead. Here in Lancaster Co. I have not seen it go to head at all. Extra leafy leaves can reach 3 in. wide and 4 ft. long.

Both Mega Green and Century can be no tilled into old alfalfa stands after first cutting to double your haylage yields. Because of the high sugar content cows really go for it and milk well too.

MILLENNIUM BMR Hybrid Forage Sorghum, from Walter Moss Seed Co., is used as a low cost high quality alternative to corn silage. In a 1999 on farm comparison in Ephrata, PA it out yielded corn almost 2 to 1 in dry weedy conditions at 25 tons per acre with 70% moisture. It was planted in rows with a corn planter and chopped with a regular cornhead when the grain was in soft dough stage. This hybrid has exceptional levels of sugars and NSC which provides extra energy and nutrition. Large grain panicles add to the nutritional content and energy of silage.

[illegible] TURNIP from Barenbrug is a very leafy turnip that has won yield trials including one in Berks Co. PA where it was seeded May 18, 1999 and harvested June 30th and rivaled the yield of Sorghum Sudangrass. It had a RFV of 216. It can also be mixed with Sorghum Sudan.

Gettysburg FFA Will Use Grant To Build Environmental Center

Part of the proposed sight for Gettysburg Area School's environmental/earth center, these grounds include wetlands, wooded area, and potential turfgrass areas for use in environmental education.

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Ron Sollenberger, Gettysburg Battlefield FFA Adviser and teacher at the Gettysburg Area High School, has wanted to develop an environmental center ever since he started teaching 26 years ago.

Now, thanks to Pennsylvania's Agricultural and Rural Youth Grant Program, Sollenberger will have that opportunity.

Gettysburg Battlefield FFA was one of four youth programs to receive the highest dollar value of matching grants — about $10,000 dollars — approved by the grant program. 31 youth organizations received a total of $100,000 in matching and direct grants as part of this year's grant program, which was administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Gettysburg Area High School has more than 300 students enrolled in agriculture classes, while 40 students are members of the Gettysburg Battlefield FFA. But Sollenberger hopes that the environmental center developed with the help of the matching grant will benefit many more students than just those involved in agriculture.

"My intentions are to develop an environmental center that will include as many different programs in the school as possible," said Sollenberger. "The center will be oriented primarily to high school and elementary students."

A move to a new high school located on a 125-acre property opens up the opportunity to build the environmental center.

"Our old location was only 52 acres with three buildings located on it," said Sollenberger. "This one is 125 acres with one building."

The property includes a wooded lot, wetland area, a stream, and plenty of grass. Sollenberger plans to develop turf grass plots, plant ID plots, water quality testing stations, streambase management stations, wildlife habitat areas, and forestry management stations.

"The matching grant will be used primarily to purchase the equipment needed for the environmental center," said Sollenberger. "Students will be building the center during classes, after school, and as FFA projects."

The first thing Sollenberger plans to do once he has the check from the matching grant program is to send out a wish list to elementary and high school teachers.

"I am asking them what they would want to include in the school's environmental center," said Sollenberger. "I already know that two of the elementary teachers are avid bird watchers and integrate that interest into their curriculums. Perhaps the center will have a bird watching station."

The environmental center will be designed to work with both classroom and extracurricular activities. "We plan to develop trails for the cross country runners, and we hope to establish turfgrass plots that can be used as golfing greens."

According to Sollenberger, the Gettysburg Area School District has been integrating environmental education into its curriculum for the past ten years, but teachers never had a convenient location to give students hands-on experience.

"Lots of schools have environmental centers, but the teachers often don't know about them because they're not integrated into the curriculum," said Sollenberger. "We want to develop as many different ways for teachers and students to use the center as possible. Basically, it will include anything that has to do with the environment."

Sollenberger and his students will be working with area organizations to develop the center.

"We've already talked with the soil conservation district, and we're talking to a local forester on Friday," said Sollenberger. "We're doing some soil profiles, and we plan to involve the game commission and the state land management person in the project."

With 125 acres, the organizations are eager to help. "The game commission was appalled at the amount of grass we are mowing here," said Sollenberger. "They see a lot of potential for wildlife habitats in that grass."

In addition to the school property, a four-acre plot at the county's new Ag Resource Center has been designated for use by county school agriculture programs.

"Since we're the closest school to the center, we'll probably have the most opportunities to use the plots," said Sollenberger. "I'm hoping to have our turfgrass plots there because the school may not let us plow up any ground."

Sollenberger expects the environmental center to be an ongoing project. "The matching grant will be used to get the ball rolling," said Sollenberger. "I don't expect to ever really complete the project because working with the center and adding new things is the way we can teach students about the environment."

For Sollenberger, writing the grant was an extensive project. "I spent quite a bit of time on it," he said. "The hardest thing was digging up the itemized cost figures and being able to justify them."

Once he completed the proposal, Sollenberger showed it to both the students and school board for their approval and sent it to Pennsylvania Department of Ag last December.

Representatives from the Pennsylvania Departments of Agriculture and Education, the state 4-H and FFA associations, the Pennsylvania Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association, the Penn State Cooperative Extension, the Pennsylvania State Grange, the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives, and the Pennsylvania General Assembly judged the applications.

"I was really surprised when I was notified in February that our proposal was approved," said Sollenberger. "It is one of those things where you are either approved or not. They won't give you half of the money you asked for — it's all or nothing."

The center will be the largest project that Sollenberger has ever undertaken in his years of teaching.

"I have a lot of dreams about how this center will be," he said. "We might not get permission to do everything I want to do. But there are so many different aspects of environmental education we can incorporate. If one thing won't work, we can come up with something else to replace it. It is going to be as extensive of an environmental center as any school has."

Don't Disrespect The Soil That Feeds You

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The quantity and quality of the world's soil will not meet future food demands if the population continues to grow at its current rate and efforts are not taken to improve soil conditions, said an Ohio State University soil scientist.

"I tell my students that 'In soil, we trust," said Rattan Lal, a professor of soil science in Ohio State University's School of Natural Resources. "It's time that we as a community give proper respect to what we call dirt."

A specialist in soil degradation and carbon sequestration (keeping carbon in place in the soil), Lal argues that two key 21st century concerns — global food security caused by a rapid increase in world population and increases in atmospheric greenhouse gases — are linked to soil quality, especially in relation to soil carbon.

The increase of atmospheric carbon dioxide is occurring at the rate of 3.3 billion metric tons per year. In addition to fossil fuel combustion, the increase is caused by soil cultivation, biomass burning and deforestation. Even more gaseous emissions — including methane and nitrous oxide — are caused by further declines in soil quality from erosion and nutrient imbalance, Lal said.

Before the 1970s, more carbon was emitted into the atmosphere from soil and agricultural activity than from fossil fuel combustion. Now, agricultural activities are responsible for about 25 percent of global emissions.

Lal has worked with colleagues around the world to assess the potential for agricultural practices that would improve soil quality and, at the same time, reduce emissions of carbon dioxide into the air.

He recommends a variety of agricultural practices, including conservation tillage, precision farming and growing cover crops, to keep carbon in the soil, thus improving soil productivity and reducing the release of carbon into the air. He estimates judicious land use and soil management techniques could resequester 60 percent to 70 percent of the historic carbon loss of 80 billion to 100 billion metric tons of carbon.

In the United States alone, carbon sequestration could affect 212 million metric tons of carbon per year, or about 12 percent of the total carbon emissions. Through a global program of soil management, "the potential of soil restoration is enough to nullify the annual increase in atmospheric concentration of carbon dioxide," Lal said.

Increasing soil carbon also has other societal benefits: resisting erosion, reducing the transport of pollution-laden sediment into water, decreasing downstream flooding and lowering the release of particulate matter into the atmosphere — thus, decreasing the risks of global warming.

"It's truly a win-win strategy," Lal said.

However, the use of cropland to reduce atmospheric carbon levels is not a permanent solution to the problem. Soil can only hold so much carbon, and with appropriate agricultural practices it will be filled within 25 to 50 years, Lal said. Soil carbon also can be easily lost back into the atmosphere. One mistake, such as plowing once after years of no-till can destroy 20 years of work.

"This isn't a substitute to finding alternatives to fossil fuel usage," he said. "What it does is provide us an opportunity to sequester carbon in agricultural soils for the next 25 to 50 years while we find viable alternatives to fossil fuels. This is not 'the' answer, but it is an important temporary solution."

Though the water and air quality concerns are high priorities, Lal emphasized that world hunger — already a problem for 790 million people globally — will intensify if agricultural productivity is not improved.

"There are not many troubles in the world more alarming than those caused by an empty stomach," Lal said.

The combination of the best soils with the best management practices will produce optimum yields and spare marginal land for nature conservancy, he said.

Concerns about food availability are particularly high in developing countries, where almost 97.5 percent of the estimated annual population increase of 73 million people is expected to occur, Lal said. Malnourishment in these areas is intensified in cases where crops and animals are raised on degraded soils missing many nutrients — among them, zinc, copper and iron.

Lal's collaboration with other scientists in a national, multi-institutional research effort to quantify the potential of soil carbon sequestration has led to the publication of 12 books.

To learn more about carbon's impact on soil quality and the use of cropland to reduce the threat of global warming, interested people should call Lal at (614) 292-9096, e-mail him (Lal.1@osu.edu), or check their local libraries for a book Lal and several other authors have written on the subject titled, "The Potential of U.S. Cropland to Sequester Carbon and Mitigate the Greenhouse Effect." The U.S. Department of Agriculture commissioned the study.

Glickman Fills Vacancy On National Dairy Board

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman recently announced the appointment of Neil Hoff of Windhorst, Texas, to fill a vacancy in region 4 on the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board.

Region 4 includes Arkansas, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas. Hoff will serve the remainder of a 3-year term ending Oct. 31, 2002. The vacancy was created by the resignation of John B. Stacks of Damascus, Ark.

The National Dairy Promotion and Research Board is composed of 36 dairy farmers representing 13 regions of the contiguous U.S. and administers a coordinated program of promotion, research, and nutrition education.

The board was established by the Dairy Production Stabilization Act of 1983. It is authorized to design programs to strengthen the dairy industry's position in domestic and foreign markets. The national program is financed by a mandatory 15-cent per hundredweight assessment on milk produced in the contiguous 48 states and is marketed commercially by dairy farmers.

All-American Dairy Show Announces Changes for 2000 Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A new name, increased premiums and new classes are part of the comprehensive changes being introduced for the 2000 All-American Dairy Show, to be held at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, Sept. 24-Sept. 28.

In an effort to more accurately reflect the world class nature of the show, the Board of Directors dropped Pennsylvania from the All-American Dairy Show name, which they feel better emphasizes the large participation by exhibitors throughout the country, while reflecting a more global perspective.

"We move forward as a leader in the dairy cattle show sector. With additional funds from the state legislature, we will return significantly more money to the dairy farmer exhibitor, and place a greater emphasis on educating the consumer about the value of Pennsylvania's dairy industry," Obie Snider, president of the All-American Dairy Show, said. "We will continue to be the premier dairy cattle show on the North American continent, and demonstrate our wide appeal through our new name."

The increase in premiums is an important change, Snider said. First place winners in milking cow classes will receive $300. All animals which are shown in the showring will get a premium, with cow classes paying $40 to the end of the class. Calf and heifer classes will pay $150 for first place winners and $30 to the end of the class. These increases will help offset some of the expenses of exhibiting.

The Board also approved Exhibitor Herd Class payouts of $400 for first place, hoping to encourage exhibitors to bring at least five animals to the show. Complete details on the premium schedule changes will be included on the Premium List, which will be available in early July.

To increase interest among the general public, "Meet a Cow Day" has been added to the schedule. This public relations effort will be a joint activity utilizing the talents and skills of members of the dairy science clubs at Penn State and Delaware Valley College. Non-farm families will be invited to visit the Farm Show Complex on Sunday, Sept. 24, to "meet a cow" and learn about the dairy industry and dairy products.

The following classes have also been approved as additions for the 2000 show: Exhibitor's Herd in four breeds, Produce of Dam and Dam & Daughter in Guernsey, 100,000 lb. Class in four breeds, and Six Year and Over Class in Guernsey and Milking Shorthorn.

A silent auction at the commercial exhibit area will help vendors promote their services and products. As dairy farmers visit the show they will have the chance to bid on valuable packages of goods and services. Vendors will also be on hand to talk to farmers and share their expertise. This interactive event is meant to stimulate the trade show floor traffic while enhance vendor participation.

In other business, the board of directors elected David Patrick, Maple Lawn Farms, Woodbine, Maryland, as Ayrshire breed representative; Cindy Warner, Round Hill Acres, Frederick, Maryland, as industry representative replacing John Morris, Frederick, Maryland, who recently resigned from the Board.

The All-American Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show again promises to be the largest and most comprehensive display of its kind in the world. Exhibitor reservations are now being accepted and vendor openings are quickly filling.

For more information or to request a premium list, contact the All-American Dairy Show office at the Farm Show Complex, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408 or at (717) 787-2905.

PDPP Donates Chocolate Milk To Food Bank

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co. — To give Pennsylvania's kids health and fun in one, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program donated 600 servings of chocolate milk to the Greater Pittsburgh Community Food Bank to use in their after-school program. The chocolate milk was provided to children participating in the program during April.

"Kids are downing more and more beverages like sodas and juice drinks and as a result, they're not getting the calcium they need at a crucial bone-building age," says Debra Summerall, spokesperson for PDPP. "But one of the best sources of nutrients - particularly calcium - is found in chocolate milk, which kids find fun to drink."

Sodas and juice drinks have pushed aside milk for many kids in this country, and dairy farmers are concerned because most children are missing out on the calcium they need for growth and development. But there is one unknown solution: chocolate milk.

A national survey of more than 1,000 parents nationwide revealed 84 percent of parents do not know that chocolate milk contains the same nine essential nutrients as regular milk.

Compost As A Soil Conservation Tool

What do you think of when you think of soil conservation? Most would say any soil management practice that results in conserving precious topsoil. Many remember the various advances brought to us over the last half century by the people at SCS and thank the people at ASCS for helping us to pay for them. These advances include contour strips, grass waterways, diversions, tiling of wet areas, and yes, even manure management systems designed to eliminate a daily manure haul. How many of you can say that you have implemented a number of these practices? Many, no doubt.

How does compost fit into this discussion? Understanding this requires an answer to the question of what is compost? There are many answers. Those who prefer can answer with a very complicated response that will consume a paragraph. You may also have an answer that goes something like - it's a pile of manure that's set for awhile! And that answer may not be incorrect - but, it may not be correct, either. Compost, simply put, is new soil. Yes, that's right, compost is actually new soil. Your father taught you that that you couldn't make new soil, right? Well, he was only partly correct. If compost is applied to soil, it does amend present soil and add organic content, in effect adding new elements to soil and enriching present soils But this is done through a variety of ways.

Compost can be described as the result of a controlled bio-degradation process. In this process, good soil bacteria are formed when certain conditions are met. These bacteria, commonly referred to as thermophiles (microbes that live in this temperature range), remain active after the initial active process is complete. When introduced into soils as an amendment, they re-energize this soil and bring new life to it. The result is that you have added very healthy new organic matter to the soil and then loosed these new young energetic microbes into your soil as well. The attributes of this situation not only includes a fertilizer value, but creates enhanced properties of soil, including better long term absorption of nutrients, better water holding capacity, much more vigorous root growth in plants, and increased resistance to root disease to name a few.

Many consider the fertilizer N-P-K value of the added compost to be of prime economic value. It may be true that you can measure this one in dollars and cents right away. But, consider how many of these soil conservation practices named above that you can attach dollars and cents savings to immediately. The savings are met only over a long period of time, and future generations thank previous ones for making the investment.

I believe compost is in the same category. The secret of compost is not in it's fertilizer value, but in its' soil enhancing properties. We are making new soil when we amend poor soils with compost. Think of it this way - if you have a barren slope and you do not protect it with a contour or grass waterway, you will end up with soil erosion after heavy rains. This soil ends up in a waterway and becomes silt, which will be dredged somewhere eventually, at great cost. It also costs you, since you now have less topsoil that you will never see again. Therefore, you make the investments necessary to keep your soil. And, the government helps because it is cost-effective to be pro-active when it comes to soil loss - they'll have to pay more later if they don't help now.

Using compost gives you an opportunity to add fertility and tilth back into your soils. It provides an opportunity to leave the soil in better condition than which it was found, so that future generations can benefit from its' miracle. I believe this to be a greater opportunity than any other soil conservation practice to date. Other practices prevent topsoil loss. The practice of compost amending soils will add more topsoil to what we already have and make it healthier.

Many farms already have all of the needed ingredients. What is needed is added education and know-how. We need to increase our understanding of how to utilize the compost tool. We have by-product materials that are being truly wasted right now. With some help in understanding proper management practices, we can use this tool to better our farms, our fields, our crops and the bottom line for ours and future generations. The compost process should be a controlled manufacturing process, similar to making silage. The more careful we are in controlling the ingredients and the process, the better the end product quality. Many similar tools are used in the process. We need to better understand what is needed in creating compost so that we can better recognize the value in certain waste materials.

The Agriculture support organizations should all participate in this process. Extension can provide research, applications assistance, training, and educational materials. Farm Service Agency can provide the assistance of the soil conservation professionals, and ASCS can help with cost-sharing on certain required equipment. Nutrient Management professionals can help with assistance in soils application impact planning. Suppliers can help with providing new tools and service support.

Together, we can all work to make it happen! Get involved.

Maryland DHIA Report

The March Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). ECM combines milk production and components.

The ECM formula is: (7.2 x lbs. protein) + (12.95 x lbs. fat) + (.327 x lbs. milk). To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of ECM per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top ten herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

Shaping the future with 4-H and FFA.

First Union's Agri-Finance Department is proud to support 4-H and FFA members and programs. We believe preserving the family farm is one of the most effective ways to ensure a better future for everyone. So First Union is committed to working with young people and supporting their goals.

With guidance and encouragement, they will develop the skills and values they'll need to be successful in farming or wherever their lives take them. And their achievements will benefit us all.

Vending Machines And Retail Campaign Lead April Promotion Efforts

Vending Machines Offer Expanded Market for Milk

Through a jointly managed test program by Dairy Management Inc.™ (DMI) and MilkPEP, consumers now have access to ice-cold milk from 39 vending machines located in schools, hospitals, businesses, and airports in six southern and northeastern cities.

Consumer focus groups have said that, in order to buy milk from vending machines, they want convenient packaging, such as single-serve plastic containers, along with the assurance of freshness. They also liked the idea of buying milk in conjunction with sweet snacks, such as cookies.

This research has resulted in the development of two vending machine models: one strictly dedicated to milk vending, the other designed to sell milk and Nabisco sweet snacks packaged together. These machines have been installed in U.S. markets this spring. Both serve a variety of 16-ounce single-serve plastic containers of milk.

The Fluid Milk Strategic Thinking Initiative (FMSTI), a fluid milk "think tank" formed by MilkPEP and DMI, is contracting with a market research firm specializing in vending equipment to collect sales data from the test. FMSTI will use the research to evaluate the potential opportunity vending holds for increased fluid milk sales.

Largest-Ever Fluid Milk Retail Promotion Begins May 29

Milk processors and dairy farmers are co-partnering with food retailers to sell more milk in the month of June via the Milk Mustache "Fame Game," which promises to be the most widespread retail promotion ever for fluid milk.

"Fame Game" is a nationwide on-the-cap promotion featuring more than 200 million game caps on gallons of white milk. The game allows consumers to win instant prizes, including "got milk?®" merchandise and products from tie-in partners, including Jell-O and specific retail chains. Consumers can win instantly or collect key game pieces for the chance to win special prizes, including the grand prize of becoming a Milk Mustache celebrity for a year.

Point-of-sale materials for "The Fame Game" will appear in retail outlets during the month of June. Event-specific television and print advertising begins May 29.

NIH Panel Confirms Dairy's Role in Osteoporosis Prevent

Low calcium intake caused by low consumption of dairy products and a generally low level of fruit and vegetables can put Americans at risk for osteoporosis, according to a consensus statement released by an independent, non-government panel of experts convened at a National Institutes of Health (NIH) Conference meeting earlier this spring in Washington, D.C.

"Calcium is the nutrient most important for attaining peak bone mass and for preventing and treating osteoporosis," the panel's statement said. "Factors contributing to low calcium intakes are restriction of dairy products, a generally low level of fruit and vegetable consumption, and a high intake of low calcium beverages such as sodas."

The statement also said that, while current government recommendations for children and teens ages 9 to 18 call for calcium intakes of 1,300 mg/day, or the equivalent of four servings of dairy products, only about 30 percent of boys and 10 percent of girls actually meet these recommendations. Similarly, adequate intake of vitamin D, which helps maximize calcium absorption, was cited as important for bone growth and development and in the prevention of osteoporosis. As milk consumption among children drops off, however, adequate intake of vitamin D is also at risk, the panel said.

"This report reinforces the importance of all children and adults consuming three servings of dairy a day to get the calcium and other nutrients needed to build strong bones and reduce osteoporosis risk," said Greg Miller, vice president of nutrition research for National Dairy Council® (NDC), the nutrition marketing arm of Dairy Management Inc.™.

For more on the conference, see NDC's site at www.nationaldairycouncil.org.

National Dairy Council Web Sites Win National Acclaim

Leading nutrition and health on-line rating guides recently recognized two National Dairy Council® (NDC) Web sites for excellence. NDC's Nutrition Explorations site (www.nutritionexplorations.org) received the highest possible ranking from Tufts University's Nutrition Navigator, an on-line rating guide that evaluates nutrition-based Web sites. The site provides educators with fun, easy-to-use activities to teach kids about nutritious foods - including dairy products - and information on how to eat healthy.

Current Status Of Linear Type Evaluation In Judging Contests

Dairy cattle judging contests have played an important role in the development of youth in the US for several decades. Judging contests help youth become better decision makers by forcing them to think on their feet. In addition, these contests provide excellent experience in oral communication. As a consequence, many people involved in youth education feel that the experience of participating in judging contests is very positive and that these contests play an important role in developing young leaders.

Dairy judging contests routinely require youth to place 6 to 12 classes of animals, with 4 animals in each class, and present oral reasons on 2 to 6 classes. This general format has not changed very much for at least 40 to 50 years in most areas of the US with the exception of inclusion of linear scoring in some contests sponsored by FFA. Livestock judging contests utilized a similar format to dairy contests until the 1980s when additional exercises were added to many livestock contests. These exercises include the inclusion of performance data along with the physical qualities of animals and additional groups of animals where some animals are designated as culls and others as keepers (keep/cull classes). In addition, livestock contests have had evaluation components for evaluating live animals for carcass traits.

Linear type evaluation began in dairy cattle in the early 1980s. It is safe to say that linear evaluation has changed dairy cattle breeding and selection dramatically. We now know more about the economic importance (or lack of economic importance) of physical characteristics in dairy cattle as a result of routine linear type trait evaluations. Currently, linear type traits are used in making sire selection decisions in breeding programs all around the world. In addition, linear type traits are used in a large part of the US dairy population for deciding which sires to use on specific cows, a practice called corrective mating by the breeding industry.

Although many judging contests have changed very little over the past several decades, the dairy industry has made enormous progress. Breeding and management programs have changed dramatically and this change has led many people to conclude that judging contests could be enhanced by the addition of new activities. At Penn State, we have included linear type evaluations in local contests for almost 10 years. Linear scoring has been added to traditional collegiate judging and evaluation courses at many universities. In recent years, linear type scoring has been an option for contestants at the PA All-American Dairy Cattle Judging Contest. Last year the national judging contest in Madison, WI experimented with an optional linear component. In 1999, collegiate coaches voted to exclude linear results in the overall rankings for the National Intercollegiate Dairy Judging Contest. Instead, awards for high contestants and teams for linear evaluation were presented. To this date, none of the major regional or national contests include the linear scoring component as part of the overall ranking of participants or teams with the exception of FFA contests. Contest managers and team coaches ultimately will decide if linear scoring will become an official part of judging contests.

Although linear type scoring in judging contests is very new, we have good information on how to handle the technical aspects of including linear scores in judging contests. Research at Penn State (in cooperation with the University of Florida and the University of Wisconsin) involving youth from several locations around the US has shown that contestants can be effectively ranked based on linear scores of 4 or more cows. Contestants should be handled in such a way to ensure that everyone has an unobstructed view of each cow, contestants should score one cow at a time, and contestants should move to subsequent cows in a systematic manner. Contestant linear scores can be easily evaluated by deviating their linear scores from official linear scores provided by experts on site; these deviations can be utilized to identify winning teams and individuals.

Inclusion of linear type scoring in major youth judging contests is very controversial at the moment. Many breeding companies support the concept of including linear scoring in contests because of the importance of linear scoring in the improvement of dairy cattle. However, the recent vote by collegiate coaches means that linear scoring will not be formally included in contests anytime soon. For now, it appears that collegiate students will have opportunities to compete in linear evaluation, but these opportunities will be separate from overall contest results that only include class placings and oral reasons.

NFO Endorses Pivotal Senate Concentration Bill

AMES, Iowa — Recently the National Farmers Organization (NFO) endorsed The Farmers and Ranchers Fair Competition Act, a Senate bill designed to combat growing economic concentration in agriculture.

"The nation's farmers and ranchers are laboring under incredible financial pressures, stemming, in part, from a lack of competition for their products," said National Farmers President Paul Olson. "In the last decade and a half, the farmers' share of the food dollar has shifted away from those producers into the hands of agribusiness, which is causing incredible economic hardship on those farm families."

Prices that determine producers' income for some ag commodities are at 25-year lows.

The Farmers and Ranchers Fair Competition Act would help control anticompetitive practices by multinational agribusinesses that hurt producers and would halt mergers that contribute to the economic devastation being encountered in rural America.

"The most critical component to the survival of independent producers are the prices they receive," Ag Policy Analyst Gene Paul emphasized. "Because of increased concentration in agriculture, markets are not open, fair or competitive, and these conditions must be reversed."

At its most recent national convention in January, National Farmers members ratified a resolution calling for an investigation and divestiture of corporations who control several segments of the food industry.

Representing agricultural producers since 1955, the farm organization has repeatedly spotlighted the growing anticompetitive climate, and believes the Senate bill could begin a trend toward restoring equitability to those who produce America's food and fiber.

Farm Organizations Call To Renew Over-Order Premium

with what other markets that aren't regulated are paying, we run the risk of having more milk that isn't regulated coming into Pennsylvania or higher use of Pennsylvania milk for cheese and powder," said Bell. "If the producers have more of their milk going for cheese and powder, that's going to adversely affect their milk check."

Dennis Schad from Land O'Lakes, Inc., who represented MACMMA at the hearing, agreed with Bell.

"We testified for a lower premium due to the increased milk production and the inability of MACMMA to hold Class I over-order premiums outside the state to the PMMB levels," said Schad. "We're hoping that the lower premium will stabilize milk production."

MACMMA is an over-order pricing agency that represents cooperatives in the Middle Atlantic region, including Land O'Lakes, Maryland and Virginia Milk Cooperative Association, Dairylea, and Dairy Farmers of America.

"Our fear is that milk from other states will come in and take Class I sales from Pennsylvania farmers," said Schad.

Schad also reminds farmers to put things into perspective. "With the addition of the diesel fuel premium established this spring, the current premium for Pennsylvania Class I milk is at $1.45," he said. "The adjustment would make the premium $1.25, and the diesel fuel premium is expected to last through August."

"Another thing we have to consider is that, since the over-order premium went into effect in the late 1980's, the highest premium under normal circumstances has been around $1 to $1.05," said Bell. "From 1995 to 1999, the premium stayed between 40 and 80 cents. So the premium that the board will hopefully establish is still on the high end of the scale from past premiums, even at $1.00."

C. Arthur Zug, a Juniata County dairy farmer and member of the Grange, called for the $1.20 premium to continue. He said in his testimony that the 1999 cost of producing 100 pounds of milk was below or nearly below the price farmers received for their milk.

"We believe that the low base price over the last year, increased feed cost, and residual effect of last year's drought justify this premium," said Zug.

Zug, who milks around 250 cows and farms 600 acres, said his January 2000 milk check per hundredweight was $11.58. With the over-order premium at $1.20, plus the temporary diesel fuel premium of 25 cents, a farmer who is paid $12 per hundredweight would actually receive $13.45 for their Class I (fluid) milk.

The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board will review the testimony from all three organizations and will determine the new premium price based on the findings of facts and conclusions of law.

According to Tracy Jackson from PMMB, the hearing was relatively short.

"All three attorneys waived the briefs because there was really nothing to debate about other than the premium level," said Jackson.

The hearing was called after PMMB received a petition from the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. "The current premium was due to expire, and we needed to having a hearing to establish a new one," said Jackson.

The new premium will be voted on in early June, will go into effect on July 1, and is expected to last through December 31. If something drastic affecting dairy prices would happen in that time period, PMMB could hold an emergency hearing to adjust the premium if needed.

Baby Green Championship Awarded to Cruising Bay

NEW LONDON (Clearfield, Co.) — The Triangle Horse Show series started the year 2000 series on Sunday, April 16. The first show of the season was held at Grazing Acres in New London. The start time of 8 a.m. was delayed for ½ hour and the rain lessened and the sky cleared, making for pleasant horse show weather for the rest of the day.

New for this year's series is the awarding of cash prizes for the Baby Green Division. This is in addition to the cash prizes for Low Hunter and Pleasure Horse and Pleasure Pony Divisions. The first Baby Green Champion of the season under the new prize system was Cruising Bay, shown by Jessica Hinderer of Landenberg.

Hinderer was also the Champion of the Advanced Short Stirrup Division. Wrinkle In Time, shown by Brooke Holloway of Marlboro Road, Kennett Square, was Reserve Champion of the Baby Green Division. Liz DiSabatino of Flint Hill Road, Landenberg, riding Trouble Sue, was Reserve Champion in Advanced Short Stirrup.

Other changes for 2000 include having two halter classes instead of one. Now there is a Hunter class and a Stock-Type class, with the Champion and Reserve Champion selected from the top entries in both classes. First Halter Champion under the new rules was Luck Be a Lady, handled by Betsy Kobetis of West Grove, with Quarter Moon Princess, owned and showed by Audrey Saunders of Rising Sun, MD, as Reserve Champion. The halter class is open to horses and ponies aged 3 and under.

An age limit was placed on Leadline for the year 2000 (this division is now open to riders age six and under) and the age limit for Beginner Riders was lowered. Beginner Riders, who are in their first or second year of showing, can be age 6 or higher (riders who are exactly six, must choose between Leadline and Beginner Rider).

Leadline Champion on April 16 was Chelsea Frank of Greenfield Road, Cochranville, riding Waldo. Reserve Champion was Anthony DiNenno of West London Grove Road, West Grove, riding Sabrina. In the Beginner Rider division, the Champion was Kristin Deets of Old Wilmington Road, Coatesville, riding Siri. Reserve Champion was Kasey St. John of New London riding Poco Bo Reiney.

New this year is a separate class, with its own set of year-end awards, for advanced young riders, a Junior Medals Class. Winner of the first class of the season was Melissa Donohue of General Cornwallis Drive, West Chester, riding Without a Doubt. This pair were also Reserve Champions of the Pleasure Pony and Low Hunter Divisions.

Pleasure Pony Champion was Dixie, ridden by Leane Buckley of Steelville Mill Road, Atglen.

Low Hunter Champion was Caserio Tsalturi, ridden by Sara Wilson of Elizabeth Drive, Coatesville.

Four farms participate in this show series. They are KA Equestrian Center and Blue Goose Stable in Cochranville, Grazing Acres, and Fox Meadow in Unionville. Call any of the participating farms for information and/or to be placed on the mailing list for the year 2000 series: Grazing Acres: 610-255-5009; KA Equestrian: 610-869-0746; Fox Meadow: 610-444-8805; Blue Goose: 610-869-2233.

In the Mini Mini Division, for riders 8 and under, the Champion was Ciara Danese of Thomas Farm Lane, Landenberg, riding Zamahirah. Reserve Champion was David Deets riding Desert Fire Belle. "Belle" then carried a different rider to the Championship of the Mini Division (for riders 10 and under), with this award going to Jenna DiNenno of West Grove. Reserve Champion of the Mini Division was Taylor Marcus of Street Road, West Grove, riding One Last Trick. Miss Marcus then moved up a division and was Champion of the Beginner Short Stirrup Division. Reserve Champion in Beginner Short Stirrup was Kelsey Sherman of Waverly Road, Kennett Square, riding Starburst.

In Open Equitation, for rider 13 and older, the Champion was Jennifer Haines of Boothwyn riding Sidekick. This pair were also Champions of the Pleasure Horse Division. Sarah Shaffer of West Grove, riding Low Down Louie, was Reserve Champion in Open Equitation.

In the Western Division, the Champion was AB Sunset Hunter, ridden by Alicia Boyle of Farmington Circle, West Grove. Reserve Champion was Indian Jane, ridden by Bethany Moore of Peachtree Lane, Landenberg. Indian Jane and Miss Moore were also Reserve Champions of the Pleasure Horse Division.

Corn Growers President Presents Alternative To Current Farm Program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In an address before the Consumers Federation of America's 23rd Annual National Food and Policy Conference in Washington, D.C. recently, American Corn Growers President Keith Dittrich showed that consumer food prices has risen sharply compared to prices farmers receive for their commodities.

Dittrich, a Tilden, Neb. corn and soybean producer, used these numbers to show that farm prices have very little relationship to retail food prices.

Dittrich showed that consumer food prices have risen about 250 percent since the 1975-1979 period, but prices farmers receive have declined or remained nearly steady.

"Consumers have long been given the excuse by food processors and retailers that food prices have risen because of increased farm prices. These numbers clearly show that not to be the case," said Dittrich.

Citing the failure of Freedom to Farm and the influence that giant food processors and exporting companies had on writing this legislation, Dittrich wondered why consumers of this nation should feel comfortable allowing the continued concentration of agribusiness. He predicted that two or three of these companies will very soon dominate the entire food chain from seed to finished product.

"Will consumers then get what they want in their food system safety, reliability, and fair prices? I bet not. Due to ignorance, shortsightedness, and most of all greed by large agribusiness corporations, we may soon see a feudal system of agriculture paid for by the taxpayer," said Dittrich.

To change course and guarantee that family farm agriculture remains stable and viable as the major source of food for America's consumers, the ACGA has developed a comprehensive farm policy proposal that would replace the current Freedom to Farm legislation.

"This farm proposal protects not only farmers' interests but also consumers' as well, by ensuring a strong, safe, abundant and fairly priced food supply produced by family farmers. This would be accomplished by encouraging fair market prices, providing food reserves for consumers and allowing producers to manage their inventories," said Dittrich.

The food and farm prices charts presented by President Dittrich to the Consumers Federation of America are available on the ACGA website at http://www.acga.org/foodvrsfarm/.

USDA Seeks Nominees For National Dairy Board

WASHINGTON, DC-The U.S. Department of Agriculture is asking dairy producer and farm organizations to nominate candidates to serve on the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board. Nominations must be submitted by May 31.

The Secretary of Agriculture will appoint 12 individuals from those nominated to succeed members whose terms expire Oct. 31, 2000. New members will serve 3-year terms beginning Nov. 1, 2000, and ending Oct, 31, 2003.

Appointments will be made from nominations from: Region 2 (California), Region 3 (Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah, and Wyoming), Region 4 (Arkansas, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas), Region 5 (Minnesota, North Dakota, and South Dakota), Region 6 (Wisconsin), Region 7 (Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, and Nebraska), Region 9 (Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and West Virginia), Region 10 (Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia), Region 11 (Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania), and Region 12 (New York).

Kathleen A. Merrigan, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, which oversees activities of the board, said, "AMS encourages all eligible women, minorities, and persons with disabilities to serve and participate in its committee and board activities. It is USDA's policy that membership on industry-governed committees and boards, such as the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board, accurately reflect the diversity of individuals served by the programs."

The National Dairy Promotion and Research Board was established under the Dairy Production Stabilization Act of 1983 to develop and administer a coordinated program of promotion, research, and nutrition education. The 36-member board is authorized to design programs to strengthen the dairy industry's position in domestic and foreign markets.

The national program is financed by a mandatory 15-cent per hundredweight assessment on all milk marketed commercially by dairy producers in the contiguous 48 States.

For nominating forms and procedures, contact USDA, AMS, Dairy Programs, Promotion and Research Branch, Rm. 2958-S, Stop 0223, 1400 Independence Ave., S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250-0233. For more information, telephone (202) 720-6909.

Cattlemen Encourage Landowners To Put Their Land To Work

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — Cattle and grass — what a good combination from both an environmental and economic standpoint. That will be the point of discussion at a meeting to be conducted by the Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association and Penn State Cooperative Extension Tuesday, May 16, here at New Bolton Center.

Featured speaker for the event is Conrad Fisher, a retired environmental studies teacher, who is keeping the family farm located in Montgomery County in production by intensively grazing Polled Hereford cows and calves.

Fisher will speak on the benefits of cattle and grass in relation to the environment and keeping farms in true agricultural production. Following his presentation, a panel of Chester County producers will speak on various segments of beef production in Chester County.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m. with refreshments and ends at 9 p.m., with plenty of time available to interact with those taking part in the program. Both large and small producers and those just beginning or even just thinking about including beef cattle on their land are invited to attend. There will be something new for all.

New Bolton Center is located on Rt. 926, just two miles west of the intersection of Rt. 82 and Rt. 926, outside of Unionville.

There is no charge to attend this meeting but reservations are requested. Call Penn State Cooperative Extension at (610) 696-3500 to reserve a seat.

ADADC Spreads Milk Messages Through Health Professionals

SYRACUSE, NY — To reach consumers with important calcium messages, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) places highly respected health professionals on television programs throughout the marketing area.

This spring, ADADC arranged for Robyn Flipse, RD, author of The Wedding Dress Diet, to demonstrate easy to implement tips on how brides can lose weight without cutting calcium, on WABC-TV (New York City) "Sunday Morning" show. Robin suggested brides utilize milk-based fruit smoothies, yogurts, fruit and cheese kabobs, and single-serve flavored milks in their nutritious weight loss plan.

When the National Institutes of Health announced new dietary guidelines for Americans this spring, it was a hot topic for health reporters nationwide. ADADC highlighted dairy's role in the new guidelines by placing Karen Ensle, EdD, RD, and President of the New Jersey Dietetic Association on News 12 NJ—the statewide cable station—to explain the revised guidelines and dispel myths about lactose intolerance.

ADADC also arranges for leaders in calcium research to address local groups of physicians, registered dietitians, and other health professionals, so that they in turn can pass the latest calcium information on to their patients and clients, and consumers, via media outlets.

In February, Dr. Bess Dawson-Hughes spoke to medical experts at The New York Metropolitan Bone Club about "Calcium and vitamin D: The First and Last Word on Their Nutritive and Therapeutic Value," and in March, Dr. Dawson-Hughes addressed more than 100 Albany-area health professionals on the topic of Calcium, Bone, and Women's Health. Dr. Dawson-Hughes also did an extensive interview with the local Public Broadcasting Station on the same topic.

ADADC arranged for Dr. Robert Heaney, of Creighton University, to present an update on calcium and women's health at the New York State Dietetic Association's annual meeting, also touching on the importance of dietary calcium for preventing diseases and conditions ranging from osteoporosis, hypertension, cancer, PMS, and the most recent research in weight management. ADADC took advantage of this renowned researcher being in town book and interview with him on News 12 TV in Westchester, NY.

Developing relationships with key health editors and columnists at some of the largest print outlets in the marketing area, results in tremendous opportunities to convey milk health messages to thousands of consumers.

An example is Pat Baird, MA, RD, cookbook author and health columnist with the New Jersey Star Ledger: the state's largest newspaper. Because of the credible, timely information always provided by her, she routinely comes to ADADC for story ideas, and has printed many full-page articles on topics such as calcium's role in blocking lead poisoning, new research indicating lowfat dairy may help cut risk of colon cancer.

Diversified farmers in six Pennsylvania counties are now eligible for an innovative whole farm insurance revenue insurance pilot program called the Adjusted Gross Revenue crop insurance program. This new crop insurance is now available in Berks, Carbon, Lackawanna, Lehigh, Monroe, and Northampton counties for both the 2000 and 2001 insurance years, according to John Berry, agricultural marketing agent.

"The pilot whole farm insurance should work well for Pennsylvania's family farms that grow multiple crops. Many of these diversified producers have few options under traditional crop insurance programs,"says Berry

The adjusted gross revenue insurance plan provides insurance based on the lesser of the individual producer's previous 5 year average Schedule F tax information or the expected revenue for the insurance year. This single insurance product covers all agricultural commodities produced by the policyholder. Expanding the whole farm pilot program will provide more experience in insuring whole farm income throughout the United States.

The AGR program was available for 1999 in 82 counties in Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, Oregon, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

The 2000 sales closing date for AGR in Pennsylvania is March 15, 2000.

A listing of crop insurance agents is available at local Farm Service Agency offices and USDA Service Centers.

Former Ag Secretary Named AgChoice Farm Credit Director

MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Charles Brosius, former Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture, has been named to the AgChoice Farm Credit board of directors in the post of outside director. AgChoice Farm Credit, a farmer-owned cooperative, offers financial services to over 10,000 customers in central, northeast and western Pennsylvania and part of West Virginia.

"We are very fortunate to have Charles Brosius, who is highly respected and admired in the agricultural community, on our board. The ability to draw on his wide experience as a farmer and former Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture is of significant value to our AgChoice association," said Thomas Kelly, chairman of the AgChoice Farm Credit board.

Brosius, from West Grove, has come a long way since his introduction to agriculture as a boy plowing fields, milking cows and working in the mushroom houses of the family farm. He graduated from Penn State in 1952 with a bachelor's degree in dairy science. He then managed the family dairy and mushroom farm and oversaw its evolution to Marlboro Mushrooms, a leading producer in the state mushroom industry. The United States Department of Agricultural recently appointed Brosius, a national authority in mushroom production, to the National Mushroom Council. This year, Penn State honored him as one of twelve 2000 Penn State Distinguished Alumus, the University's highest alumni award.

In addition to his accomplishments in agriculture production, Brosius served as secretary of agriculture under Governor Tom Ridge from 1995 to 1997. He was a director of Telmark, Inc., vice chairman of the board of directors of Agway, Inc., and a director and finance chairman for Curtice Burns Foods, Inc. He served as a member of the Penn State Board of Trustees, on the board of directors for the Pennsylvania Chamber of Business and Industry and is a Pennsylvania Master Farmer.

"I'm proud to be a farmer," said Brosius, "I look forward to using my varied experiences in the field of agriculture to the benefit of AgChoice Farm Credit customers." During the Depression, Brosius father, Mahlon, served as director of Production Credit Association in Norristown. PCA was a forerunner of today's Ag Choice Farm Credit.

AgChoice Farm Credit provides over $525 million in long-and short-term loans, along with related financial services to the farm and country home customers in its region. It is affiliated with the AgFirst Farm Credit Bank, the nation's leading agricultural lending group.

USDA Protects 26 New Plant Varieties

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA has issued certificates of protection to developers of 26 new varieties of seed-reproduced plants. They include potato, soybean, and wheat.

The 26 certificates are being issued under the amended Plant Variety Protection Act. The amendments extend protection to F1 hybrids and tuber-propagated varieties and require that all protected varieties be sold by variety name.

The certificates require not only that the varieties be new, uniform and stable, as in the original act, but also that they be distinct. The owners will have the exclusive right to reproduce, sell, import, and export their products in the United States for 20 years.

The 26 certificates are: the Kaskaskia variety of wheat, developed by The Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois., Urbana, Ill.; Ontario variety of wheat, developed by Monsanto Company, Berthoud, Colo.; Utopia variety of wheat, developed by World Wide Wheat, L.L.C., Phoenix, Ariz.; Bolesta variety of potato, developed by Kartoffelzucht Bohm, Grand Falls, Canada; CF461 variety of soybean, developed by Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky.; S08-80 variety of soybean, developed by Novartis Seeds, Inc., Washington, Iowa; Hartz H 4994 RR variety of soybean, developed by Hartz Seed-A Unit of Monsanto, Stuttgart, Ariz.; UM-3 variety of soybean, developed by Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station, St. Paul, Minn.; 9294, 9333, 9671, 92B71, 9234, 9322, 91B01, 93B81, 9481, 9306, 9182, and 9163 varieties of soybean, developed by Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., Des Moines, Iowa; A3244 and A2833 varieties of soybean, developed by Asgrow Seed Company, Ames, Iowa; Benning variety of soybean, developed by University of Georgia Research Foundation, Inc., Athens, Ga.; Mustang variety of soybean, developed by The Curators of the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.; and Zeke and Cuyama varieties of wheat, developed by Western Plant Breeders, Bozeman, Mont.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service administers the plant variety protection program, which provides marketing protection to developers of new and distinct seed-reproduced and tuber-propagated plants ranging from farm crops to flowers.

Dairy Industry Leaders Welcome Dairy Alliance

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Recently 70 dairy industry leaders gathered in State College to meet and welcome the new employees of Dairy Alliance.

During the reception and introductions, Terry Etherton, Department Head for Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State, said, "Dairy Alliance is a dynamic new effort aimed at increasing economic development of the dairy industry," Secretary of Agriculture, Samuel Hayes, also joined the dairy industry leaders in welcoming the new staff.

Dairy Alliance focuses on educational efforts to increase the profitability and sustainability of the industry. Launched by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, Dairy Alliance will assist progressive dairy producers in accessing the opportunities in a competitive economic climate.

Three initial areas of focus are information, business and human resource management. Through information management programs, Brad Hilty will provide leadership for integrating the production and financial data to increase profitability and gain a competitive advantage.

Human resource management programs, under direction from Rich Stup, will focus on developing the human resource capacity. These programs will assist herd managers in developing their managerial skills and relations with farm employees, as well as improving skills of employees in the dairy.

The third area of focus, Business Management, will assist in setting goals and developing business plans to maximize profits and improve lifestyles. That position is currently open.

FUTURES MARKETS

That estimate is very close to my estimates released last week. It implies the Class III price will remain at or below $10 per cwt in the spring, and then peak at $12.10 - $13.10 by the 4th quarter (October - December).

USDA's latest forecast suggests a continuation of low milk prices in 2000. It also suggests relatively strong rates of growth in the U.S. economy and in consumption of milk and dairy products. According to USDA, dairy product consumption soared last year, particularly for cheese. Per person cheese consumption jumped 1.5 pounds in 1999 to almost 30 pounds. That's the largest percentage rise in cheese consumption since 1982. It was due in large part to a very strong U.S. economy. Let's hope we get the same results this year.

For more information on market and federal order data, see my Penn State Dairy Outlook website at: http://www.aers.psu.edu/dairyoutlook/.

YORK (York Co.) — Want to redecorate your family room, but lack the confidence?

Take heart. Decorating has never been easier and more fun, according to interior designer Betty Lyden. Her decorating formula for success hinges on three rules:

- Always use accessories in uneven numbers.
- Every item should pass the test: You love it or it serves a function.
- Family photos are your best accessories.

Lyden, who travels the states teaching decorating seminars, recently presented one at York Wallcoverings Factory Store, 201 Carlisle Ave., York.

Trends and colors change, Lyden said. But it's the consumers, not the decorators, who determine the trends.

"Most influencial in determining today's trends is our frenzied lifestyle. Every item must be easy to care for. No longer do consumers want homes to care for — they want their homes to care for them. They want to feel pampered when sinking into an overstuffed chair," she said.

Rather than one particular style dominating today's market, every style is current. "The style for you is what makes you feel good," Lyden said to those trying to determine if they want to pursue shabby chic, French country, contemporary or formal decor.

The good news is that mixing styles is "in." No longer is furniture purchased in matching sets. Instead, combine heirloom pieces with garage sale finds and a store-purchased piece you love.

There are a few rules that can guide you when making decorating decisions.

"It's too shocking to have adjoining rooms with totally different colors," she said.

Repeat colors in rugs, flooring, and walls to unify rooms. In her own home, Lyden uses yellow in every room. The sunny color helps tie the different floral patterns together.

Saturated color, larger-scale patterns than popular in the past decade, natural motifs, and whimsy designs are in vogue.

No Sew Window Treatments

LOU ANN GOOD

YORK (York Co.) — Need new draperies for your living room windows?

Can't afford custom-made draperies?

Can't sew your own?

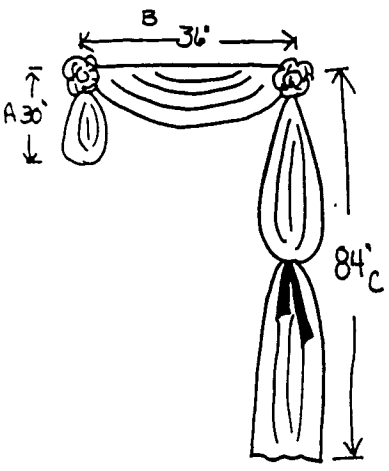
Then no-sew window treatments are the answer. Even if you can sew, you'll love the look achieved by many of the different possible styles so much that you'll want to try it yourself.

These no-sew window treatments are showing up in magazines depicting the most upscale homes. A recent workshop sponsored by York Wallcoverings uncovered just how easy it is to make a dramatic statement with a straight piece of fabric. And, some of the homes opened during the Kitchen Kaper Tulip Tour sponsored by the Ephrata Women's Club also incorporated the no-sew style into their window treatments.

Many of these methods require very little time or talent to achieve. Another advantage is that if you want get tired of the look, you simply remove the fabric from the rod or brackets and you have a whole piece of fabric to create a new look. The type of fabric and the price paid per yard is at your discretion. You might even have fabric on hand. Sheets and scarves also lend themselves to this method.

Some of the methods require fusion or iron-on tape, staples, and other items, but not all. If you are a person who learns easier by seeing than by reading, you may want to take a class offered free by fabric stores such as York Wallcoverings Factory Store, 201 Carlisle Ave., York, or ask for instructions when visiting the store.

They have instructions for the following methods: Throw swag with rosettes, asymmetrical swag with rosettes and bishop sleeves, stage coach valance, balloon valance, over the rod asymmetrical panels with decorative tiebacks, Austrian valance with side panels, board mounted fan swag, and covered cornice board.



Asymmetrical swag with rosettes and bishop sleeves. Determine yardage by adding measurements according to diagram and allowing an additional 14-inches for each rosette.

To make a throw swag — no sew valance, add together window width plus two lengths plus 14-inches for each rosette.

No sew window treatments are the newest look in home decorating. One, two, or three fabrics can be draped around curtain rods or fastened with velcro or brackets.

In a departure from the rigid decorating rules of the past, today's demands for comfort, a bit of the past, and a look toward the future are incorporated into one room.

House Tours Offer Decorating, Floral, Dining Ideas

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — House tours offer much more than the opportunity to see the interior of a home you admire when passing by. These tours abound with ideas for arranging furniture, interspersing family heirlooms among ecletric objects accumulated, integrating decorating styles, and much, much more.

For some, the tours do indeed give them ideas for designing a new home or completely redecorating it, but for most people, the event enables them to garner an idea here and there to implement into their own decorating scheme.

Most home tours include homes from different eras, from farmhouse to contemporary styles. Although you might be a rigid devotee of traditional furnishings, you may see how the flowing lines of an artful arrangement found in a contemporary home lends itself to your own decor.

The lines between furnishing homes in strictly country, period, or contemporary styles are blurring. Now delightful blends of many different styles make each home a personal signature of its inhabitants — and one you can duplicate.

Farmhouse styles continue to be duplicated even in newly-constructed houses.

True, many of the houses on tours are the result of an interior designer. But you don't need to hire one. Instead, use one of the ideas that grabs your attention. Perhaps, it's the way the furniture is grouped around the fireplace.

Did you ever think about angling your area rug instead of keeping it perpendicular to the walls?

Have you always admired canopy beds, but your own bed, while sturdy, seems so plain? You can't afford a new bed, but you can imitate an idea spotted on a house tour. Fabric hung from two curtain rods above the bed and draped to the floor portrays a canopy effect.

See how that fabric pattern ties together an unusual color combination? Perhaps you can find fabric that will tie together the outdated blue upholstered recliner your husband insists on keeping with your recently acquired green-hued sofa you love. Use the fabric to drape a window or cover a few throw pillows with it.

Recently, hundreds of people toured the homes opened for the annual Kitchen Kaper sponsored by the Ephrata Women's Club. Not only were the homes open for tour, but each of the homes had an area florist arrange stunning displays to coordinate with the decor, and a different restaurant prepared food specialties for tour participants to sample. more unusual recipes was this recipe served by the Olde Lincoln House, Ephrata.

Mediterranean Couscous

Although it is usually classified as a grain these little granules are tiny pasta made by coating ground semolina with flour. It is a staple in the North African kitchen, where there are as many ways to serve it as there are chefs. In traditional Moroccan cuisine, it is prepared in a two-chambered couscousiere; and the couscous cooks as the aromatic steam rises through perforations in the second chamber. The essence of the stew flavors the couscous as it expands slightly.

Of course you don't need special equipment or a stew to enjoy this wonderful, light pasta.

A little chicken stock and almost any minced or diced ingredients, from sauteed onion to pine nuts and from chopped calamata olives to currants, some spices, chopped parsley, and herb seasoning, olive oil, red wine vinegar, feta cheese, and shrimp, and you have a quick and delicious side dish.

Berks County Dairy Princess Pageant To Be Held May 6

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The first Berks County Dairy Princess of the new millennium will be crowned on May 6 at the Berks County Ag Center, Leesport.

Ashley, a kindergartner at Conrad Weiser West said she enjoyed being able to tell people about the values of milk.

Alternate Lucinda Bray is the sole contestant in this year's contest. Cindy, as she is affectionately known, is a senior at Tulpehocken High School. Her future plans include attending Penn State University to major in landscape architecture. She has been named the Tulpehocken Outstanding Young Women for 1999-2000. While in school, she was active in the soccer and field hockey teams, having served as co-captain of the field hockey team. She is the FFA's treasurer and senior class treasurer. She is employed at the WayHar Dairy Farm. She owns 10 Jersey and Holstein cows. She enjoys exhibiting her dairy cattle and market swine at county fairs. She has served as the alternate dairy princess this year. She is the daughter of John and Marcia Bray, Richland.

Highlights of the pageant will include honoring ambassadors, naming a dairy princess and a little miss dairy princess, and a review of dairy promotion in Berks County.

A pathetic sight, it was.

The beige-feathered bantam hen, hopelessly tangled in a piece of nylon netting, was filthy and wet from thrashing in the mud in a corner of the pasture. Andy and Nate, two of our after-school work team, had rescued the bedraggled hen when they switched milking herds. We quickly took a sharp scissors to the netting, then gave the hen an impromptu warm bath in a bucket.

She cursed us in chicken talk, squawking with a vengeance, attempting to inflict damage. After the dunking, I wrapped her in a towel, carried her to the far end of the barn and released her. Save for the extremely bad temper (she flung a few more unprintable chicken epithets at me as she fled), the hen seemed none the worse for her misfortune.

Next morning I spotted her in the distance, still squawking. This time, her ire was aimed at the persistent pursuit by one of our two roosters.

Our once-abundant pasture bantam flock has dwindled to few, tough old-timers. Their efforts in the last year or so to reproduce have been repeatedly short-circuited by foxes, hawks, owls, and Mamma Cat, our professional barn-pest patroller. Since chickens are not encouraged around dairy operations, we have left nature take its course. And no more thought was given to the mad, wet hen, except for Andy's and Nate's inquiry about her a few days later.

Then, a few evenings before Easter, the hen appeared outside the heifer barn with five tiny, new chicks in tow. The four cream-colored and one charcoal baby peeps were just adorable. Knowing the cats would shortly be on watch, I told the guys I'd try to find and snag the little family after dark, knowing a couple of grandchildren across the meadow would be thrilled with a family of real Easter chicks.

Evening came and went, we got busy with something else, and the hatched egg hunt was forgotten. So first thing next morning, before pitching in with chores, I went searching, hoping to beat the cats to the punch. Just outside the distant end of the barn, on the ground, hunkered the hen. Three feet away, a cat waited, knowing she would begin stirring at daylight and the chicks would become vulnerable.

But, before I could inch quite close enough to snag her, that hen bolted into mid-air, screaming unbelievably loud insults at the top of her tiny lungs. One chick had died overnight; I scooped the other four into a plastic pail. The Farmer arrived to lend a hand; it took several minutes before we could coax her to the edge of the leaned-over pail, where he corralled her. Against her screaming, squawking, pecking protests, she and her family were tucked into a cardboard box in the warm barn office, then headed home with our daughter after morning chores.

It was the grandson's "project" of the day to help set up chicken wire around an old smokehouse, shake out straw, fill a small water container and scatter finely-ground corn. The kids were enthralled with the chicks, more than making up for enduring the verbal abuse and flogging attempts from the hen all through this process.

Later in the day, to our daughter's groans, her hubby informed her that, early that morning, he'd spied a great-horned owl perched in the trees directly overhead of where she had set up the poultry pen.

Two more of the chicks died, including the little black one which lay still inside the fence when the boys took me on a chicken tour one evening last week. But at the back of the snug pen sat the hen, carefully concealing the remaining family members beneath her petite-and currently clean and dry-feathered frame. And she was glowering at us through the fading light.

We dug a shallow hole and buried the tiny chick. Josh, age five, chose a small rock as a gravestone. Caleb, a less understanding almost-three, wanted to do "More!" Rerunning the burial of the chick seemed highly tasteless, so we diverted his attention to more upbeat pursuits.

No one has seen the owl lately.

But it no doubt figured all this fussing by humans over a couple of chickens in an absolute hoot.

Onions For Every Occasion

Onions spark up the blandest dishes to enhance the flavor and make them more tasty. Many onion varieties, which are mostly interchangeable in recipes, are found in supermarkets. Some people prefer spring onions slivered into salads and soup. Some want the tangy "bitey"-ness of cooking onions that enliven cooked dishes. For some, it's a mild onion such as the Vidalia that attracts their culinary fancy.

Speaking of Vidalias, did you know they were discovered by accident?

The story is told that a farmer named Mose Coleman planted some onions on his Georgia farm in 1931.

Instead of the "hot" flavor he expected, the mature onions tasted sweet. The mild flavor was attributed to the unique combination of soil and climate in Vidalia and 20 counties surrounding it.

In the 1940s, the State of Georgia built a Farmers' Market in Vidalia, and because the small town was at a juncture of some of South Georgia's most widely traveled highways, the market developed a thriving tourist business. Work spread about those "Vidalia onions," which gave the onions their famous name.

In 1990, the Vidalia was named Georgia's Official State Vegetable.

Today's selection of recipes includes some featuring these mild onions. If you want more recipe ideas using onions, send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to Vidalia Onion Committee, P.O. Box 1609-FF, Vidalia, GA 30475.

Enter Dairy Recipe Contest To Win One Of These Prizes

Lancaster Farming salutes dairy farmers by holding an annual dairy recipe contest during June Dairy Month. The recipes remind us of all the wonderful dairy products available to produce culinary delights.

To enter the drawing, select your favorite recipe, which must include a substantial amount of at least one dairy product. Dairy ingredients include milk, cream, sour cream, whipped cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, dry milk, ice cream, and all hard and soft cheeses.

Please check your recipe ingredients carefully. Margarine and non-dairy substitutes such as whipped topping do not qualify as dairy products.

Dairy recipes are needed for appetizers, soups, breads, entrees, vegetables, desserts, beverages, snacks, and salads.

Clearly print or type your recipe entry. Be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use. We reserve the right to disqualify entries if these guidelines are not followed.

The difference between this contest and the weekly recipes is that you are asked to include a few paragraphs about yourself and your family. Although it is not required, a photograph of you or with your family adds a wonderful touch to accompany the printed submission. Photos will be returned if you write your name and address on the back of the picture.

Only one entry per family allowed. This contest is for adults who are 18-years-old or older, not children. Send your recipe, photo, and accompanying information with your complete address. If we do not have your complete mailing address, we cannot send your prize if you win.

Yuck!

How many parents of preschoolers and toddlers hate to hear a child utter this lovely word?

I will admit, with three young children in our household, I have heard that word uttered just a few too many times! The effect of this word is magnified even more when a group of children are together in a child care center or at a family picnic.

When caring for infants, we pretty much feed them upon demand and get relatively little resistance to the foods we offer them. As children move from infants into toddlerhood, often times the child that once ate everything now eats very little or only certain foods.

Between the ages of 10 and 12 months, toddlers slow down in their growing and that means they may not eat as much as before. This is ok. As long as the child is growing adequately and is healthy, there is no need for alarm. At this age, children become very interested in the things around them and not as interested in food.

They are also learning to be independent and say "No." Not eating certain foods may be their way to be in control. Young children are also very good at eating as much as needed. Self regulation as it is known, is a natural skill.

Preschoolers are learning to eat with forks and spoons. When they are really hungry, they may go back to eating with their hands. You may find they are fussy about things, such as only eating sandwiches which are cut in triangles, only eating a certain type of cereal or only drinking from a certain cup. This is normal.

When feeding toddlers and preschoolers, consider what a plate full of food looks like to a little one. Serve children food on a child size plate and offer small servings of food (1-2 tablespoons). They can always ask for more if they are still hungry.

Remember that children have small stomachs and can't hold enough food to keep them going from one meal to the next. Regular meals and snacks give children the energy they need to keep them going during the day. Plan snack time for 1-1½ hours after a meal.

Trying New Foods

Trying new foods is "no sweat" for some children but for others it is a monumental job!

It is important that children are given chances to try new foods. It's up to the child to decide if he/she will try a new food. It is ok if they do not want to try the food but remember that a child needs to be offered a new food many times (8-10 times) before they may eat it. Preschoolers are generally more willing to try new foods than toddlers.

With spring upon us, consider letting your young child become involved in gardening. Some parents think a child's place is definitely not in the garden due to the number of plants that get stomped to death by the patter of little feet! Conversely, the garden is a great place for a child to learn about food. Young children are fascinated by how things grow and often are more willing to try new foods if they have helped plant, care for, and pick the food.

Besides growing things like cherry tomatoes, potatoes, and squash, let the children try to grow some things that they probably won't eat. Growing such things, eggplant, broccoli, pumpkins and okra give them the opportunity to see other vegetables they may eventually eat. Sunflowers are always a hit as they grow quickly and the seeds can be roasted and eaten in the fall. Allowing little ones the opportunity to "garden" might even spark their interest in tasting something new.

When all else fails, remember that a child will eat what they like and leave the rest! Your job is to offer children new foods and food experiences and to encourage healthy eating but you cannot force a child to eat certain foods!

Within the magnetic spectrum, while some rays, such as light, can be seen by the unaided human eye, most are totally invisible to us. Far Infrared Rays (FIR) are well beyond the ability of the naked eye to see. FIR is capable of penetrating deep into the human body. It can gently and delightfully elevate the body's temperature. When it does so, it helps to expand capillaries which stimulates blood circulation. This increases the body's energy reserve, and accelerates the metabolic exchange between blood and body tissue. That's not all! FIR can actually increase the body tissue's regenerative ability. It also reduces abnormalities in nervous system and helps the autonomous system function properly.

Grow Sweet Corn

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Driving around Pennsylvania's back roads to find the perfect ear of sweet corn practically qualifies as a state sport, but a vegetable expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences says backyard gardeners also can grow sweet and tasty ears without much trouble.

'Many sweet corn varieties are resistant to most major corn diseases," says Pete Ferretti, professor of vegetable crops.

All sweet corn varieties are grown from seed and can be planted in most of Pennsylvania from about May 15 to July 1, depending upon whether varieties are early-season or late-season. To enjoy sweet corn throughout the growing season, gardeners should make multiple plantings of early, main season and late-maturing varieties.

Ferretti recommends dedicating at least a 5-foot by 5-foot square of soil for corn, a plot capable of producing about 16 corn plants or around 30 edible ears. "A square plot is ideal because corn is pollinated by the wind and plants are more likely to receive adequate wind flow in a square than in a long row," he explains.

Seeds should be planted 1 inch deep about every 4 inches in rows 16 inches apart. As the plants appear, Ferretti recommends pulling out the less vigorous plants. "Ideally, you should have about 16 inches of space between each remaining plant, which allows for good pollination and space to grow."

Ferretti says corn attracts a wide variety of pests, including corn borers, corn earworms, armyworms, Japanese beetles and corn rootworms. Home gardeners can use Sevin, an all-purpose garden insecticide, or cover the crop with fine mesh row covers. "The row covers will have to be removed when corn tassels appear so the plants can pollinate," he explains. "In a small plot, most people can control pests by walking through and removing insects unless your plot is next to a farmer's giant cornfield."

Do Fathers Have To Be Mothers?

Webster's Dictionary defines "androgyny" as, "having the characteristics of both sexes."

Is it true that fathers have to be mothers?

No, they need to be fathers. While many men feel inadequate when it comes to parenting a child, they may think that they have to "mimic" what the mother does to feel comfortable in this role. While all parents learn by "doing" on the job, fathering is not mothering any more than mothering is fathering.

Fathers are quite capable of changing diapers and feeding an infant formula in a timely manner even without prior "experience."

During pregnancy some men gain weight, experience morning sickness, and suffer postpartum depression. In fact, one study found that if fathers were involved in the daily care of their infants during the first eight weeks after childbirth, the babies where more socially responsive and able to withstand stressful circumstances later during their school years.

Fathering is important to the well being of children's development over time. Research has found that fathers play with their children differently, using fewer toys, when mothers were not present. Men encourage their children's curiosity in the solution of intellectual and physical challenges, support children's persistence in solving problems, and do not become over solicitous with regard to their children's failures.

As boys grow up, their natural instinct to nurture is often repressed by society's interpretation of the expected "male role." It has been found that boys will show this natural instinct to nurture after the birth of siblings, the entrance of pets into the family, or through concern for the physically vulnerable. Boys may not outwardly exhibit a strong nurturing tendency, but it is there.

Take a close look at the things your son does in your home, and determine if he exhibits a natural nurturing instinct. You will probably find instances when he has.

So, if men have the nurturing instinct built in, why do they often feel uncomfortable showing it?

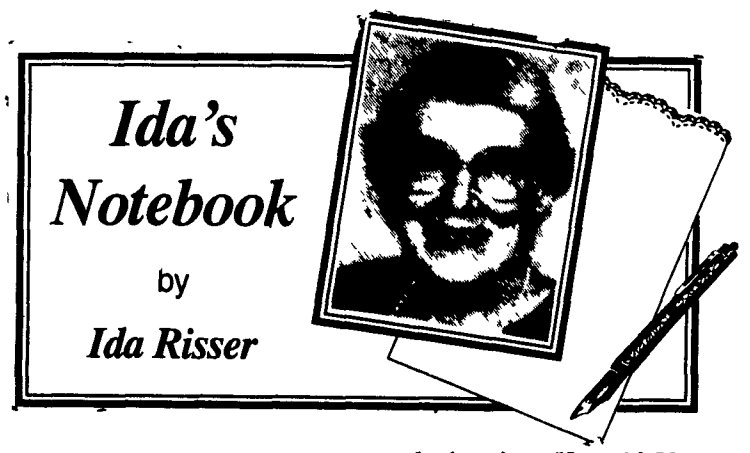
As a society somewhere along the way, openly nurturing fathers became taboo. You could feel it, but you just couldn't show it in public.

Men, it's time to reawaken your instincts and become the nurturer you were intended to be!

Your children will thrive on it, their mother will truly appreciate it, and you will find that fathering is the most satisfying thing you will ever accomplish in life.

Being an active nurturing father is a precious gift to a child.

For those of you who are already active nurturing fathers, our hats off to you because you are a mentor to your own sons.



When I was hunting the spelling of a particular tree that grows on a farm near me, I came across my father's 1945 account book. The tree that I was interested in is the Royal Paulownia named for a Russian princess.

It is a rapid-growing tree that resembles a catalpa. The fragrant upright violet flowers grow in clusters. The lightweight whitish wood is exported to Japan for furniture.

But back to the account book that I found. It certainly is interesting to compare prices. Somehow I cannot get accustomed to today's prices. He paid 50 cents for a haircut and 15 cents a gallon for gas. A battery for his tractor was $14.95, and five gallon of oil was $4.25. The coal that he purchased cost $13 per ton and that was delivered.

He bought a 40-foot ladder for $5 and a New Idea spreader for $215. The taxes were in the hundreds instead of the thousands. A bushel of seed corn was $9, one hundred pound of timothy seed $10 and five bags of seed Cobblers $22.50. The 5-10-10 fertilizer cost him $38 per ton.

Each year he bought chicks and raised them in a round metal brooder house. They needed a lot of attention. When they were grown a huckster came each week to buy the eggs. Some chickens were dressed and sold on the Northern Market in Lancaster together with honey and black walnuts.

Even though prices were low compared to today, I'm sure the income from the farm was low too. He sold five lambs for $31 and one bull for $200. He fed steers and also raised tobacco to pay the bills.

His personal expenses for the year were listed as: two shirts $2, two overalls $3.78 and shoes repaired $3. Not everyone wrote down each penny that they spent as he did.

Unity welcomes her triplets born April 18.

Tiffany, 9, and Taylor, 4, help keep these squirmy triplets in place for a photograph.

Tiffany Writes About Triplets Born On Grandpa's Farm

Hi.

My name is Tiffany Hoffman. I am 9 years old and a member of Western Berks 4-H Dairy Club.

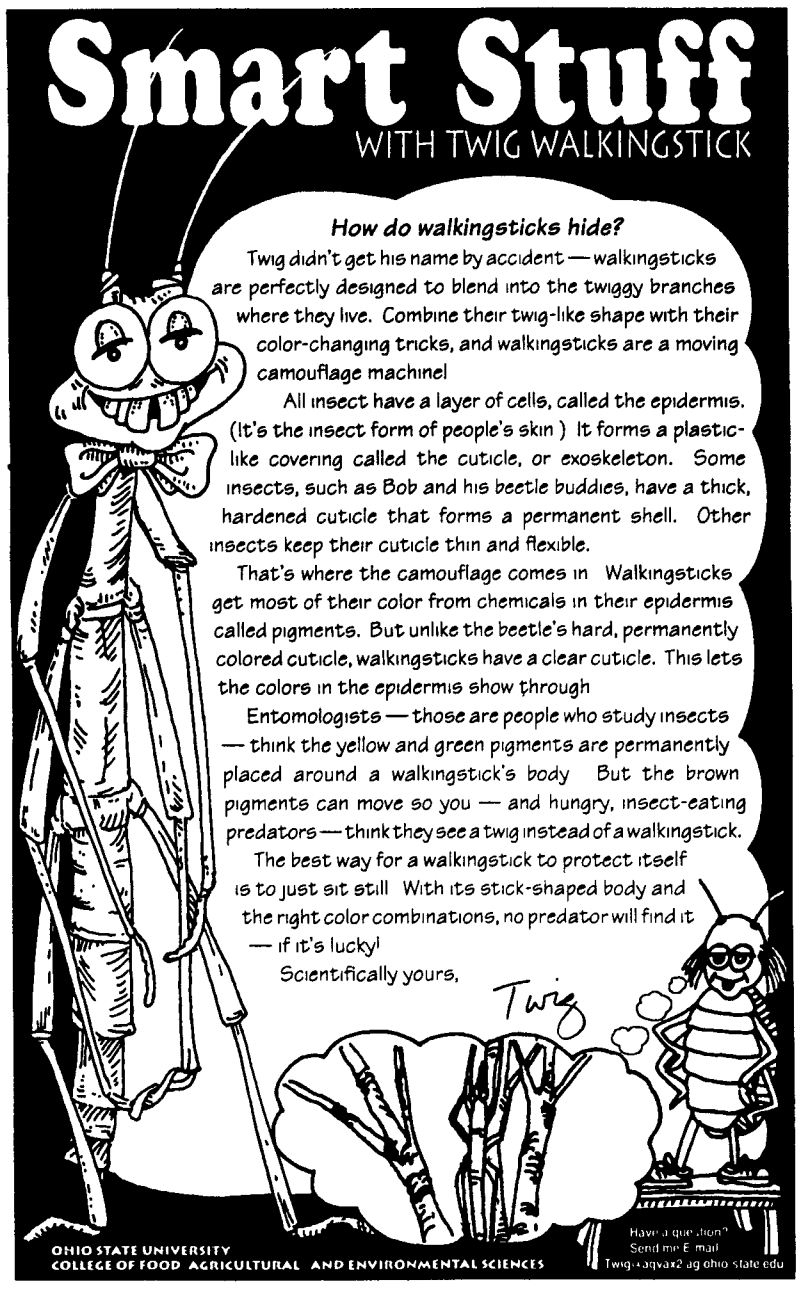
I live down the road from Grandma and Grandpa Stump (John and Rita). They have a dairy farm and I go over almost every day. I help my aunt milk sometimes.

Just recently, something unusual happened. For the first time in grandpa's life, a set of triplets were born. They arrived on April 18, which was only 10 days early.

There are two heifers and one bull. The heifers look like twins, but the bull has more black so it doesn't look like the heifers.

All the babies are doing great including the mother.

Chow time for the triplets.



Smart Stuff
WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK
How do walkingsticks hide?
Twig didn't get his name by accident — walkingsticks are perfectly designed to blend into the twiggy branches where they live. Combine their twig-like shape with their color-changing tricks, and walkingsticks are a moving camouflage machine!
All insect have a layer of cells, called the epidermis. (It's the insect form of people's skin.) It forms a plastic-like covering called the cuticle, or exoskeleton. Some insects, such as Bob and his beetle buddies, have a thick, hardened cuticle that forms a permanent shell. Other insects keep their cuticle thin and flexible.
That's where the camouflage comes in. Walkingsticks get most of their color from chemicals in their epidermis called pigments. But unlike the beetle's hard, permanently colored cuticle, walkingsticks have a clear cuticle. This lets the colors in the epidermis show through.
Entomologists — those are people who study insects — think the yellow and green pigments are permanently placed around a walkingstick's body. But the brown pigments can move so you — and hungry, insect-eating predators — think they see a twig instead of a walkingstick.
The best way for a walkingstick to protect itself is to just sit still. With its stick-shaped body and the right color combinations, no predator will find it — if it's lucky!
Scientifically yours,
Twig

'Tween Topics'

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Are you the parent or grandparent of a "tween"? If so, you probably know all too well the stresses and strains that the family and the "tween" experience daily. The child is working on becoming independent while the adults are trying to maintain family rules and order in the household.

Could you use some help in parenting your "tween"?

Penn State Cooperative Extension family living educators have written a newsletter to help you. "Tween Topics" is a free 16-page newsletter especially written for parents, grandparents, and caregivers of 10 - 15 year olds. Call the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office at (717) 253-5970 X 239 or your local cooperative extension office to receive your free issue.

You may also stop in at the Wayne County Extension office, Courthouse, 925 Court Street, Honesdale, PA 18431, to pick up your copy.

This wacky snapshot was sent in by Paris Cox, Whiteford, Md. The 7-year-old writes that these eager eaters were so hungry they hung off the sofa seat to receive their nourishment from their mother named Cox's Foxsy Roxsy.

Select In-Season Wedding Flowers

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Savvy couples can keep floral expenses down by choosing flowers that are in season on the wedding date.

The prices for popular wedding flowers that are available year-round — carnations, daisies, roses, chrysanthemums, lilies and orchids — fluctuate by season or variety and generally are less expensive in the spring and summer months.

Work with your florist to find standard all-year varieties and in-season flowers to create an arrangement that reflects your personal style. Many brides feel they can't stray from what they see in a bridal magazine or from tradition, but a professional florist working in today's global economy can get almost any flower, including some pretty exotic ones. However, exotic or out-of-season flowers can be very expensive.

Flowers that are appropriate for spring weddings include bulb flowers such as tulips, irises, daffodils and ranunculus.

Specialty spring flowers include delphinium, freesia, larkspur, peonies, viburnum, heather, genista, waxflower and Queen Anne's lace can be effective.

Summer varieties that are popular are roses and lilies. Asiatic lilies have a wide range of colors and fragrance. Calla come in large and miniature sizes in white, yellow or pink.

Gerbera with its boldly colored, daisy-like flower is available in standard or miniature varieties in a range of bright and delicate colors.

Specialty summer flowers include snapdragon, sweet pea, hydrangea and astilbe. Other flowers to consider are bouvardia and stephanotis, which are generally greenhouse-grown and pricey at any time.

During late summer and early fall, consider chrysanthemums, asters and dahlias. Mums are most plentiful in the fall and have a wide range of colors. Dahlias also have a large color range and have a large enough form to make bold and pleasing arrangements.

Sunflower and yarrow. Miniature sunflower varieties can work in arrangements.

Specialty fall flowers include birds of paradise, pincushion protea and several orchid varieties are tropical varieties available in the fall. Other specialty flowers include amaranthus, celosia, gloriosa, montbretia and zinnia.

For winter, consider tropical flowers. Anthurium, cymbidium and dendrobium all come in white or white-green hues.

Amaryllis and oriental lilies. Both flowers come in traditional color varieties, deep red and pristine white. Other colors add variety to arrangements.

White flowers such as agapanthus, euphorbia, tuberose and ornithogalum are effective in arrangements with winter greenery.

Berries such as hypericum, pepperberry and holly branches complement winter foliage and purple and red color schemes.

State President Shares Words Of Wisdom At Meyersdale FFA Annual Banquet

Meyersdale FFA President Dan Miller congratulates Richard Diest, who received the Honorary Degree at the chapter's recent annual banquet. Diest's wife Mary Ann is also pictured.

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — "Life speaks to your heart, but it whispers to your soul," Pennsylvania FFA President Elio Chiarelli, Jr., told guests and members of the Meyersdale FFA at its annual awards banquet in April.

"Winners are heroes who never give up," said Chiarelli. "They accomplish a little at a time."

It was a lesson that Chiarelli himself had to learn first-hand after joining the FFA with mediocre expectations. Instead of achieving one lofty goal, Chiarelli realized it was all of the little goals he met along the way.

Chiarelli, who is running for office in the National FFA Association, concluded his speech by saying that "You, the Meyersdale FFA, are standing out in a world of followers and making a difference."

During the banquet, state senator Richard Kasunic of the 32nd senatorial district, which encompasses Somerset and three other counties, also addressed the audience.

As a member of the state agriculture committee, the legislator noticed in particular the leadership of Somerset County in sending youths to the state capital to experiences the workings of government with their representatives.

"Anytime we have youngsters there, we are very proud to show off the capital," said Kasunic. "It is rated by the Smithsonian as the most beautiful capital in the United States."

According to Kasunic, what most concerns him is the family farms that are being depleted at an alarming rate. He expressed a strong desire for young people, such as the FFA students, to be able to continue in the family tradition of farming. If the downward spiral is not stopped, Kasunic warned that someday a heavy price may be paid for allowing it to happen.

"I am committed to do what I can to keep agriculture the number one industry in Pennsylvania," said Kasunic.

Several members and guests were honored during the annual banquet. Richard Diest of Meyersdale received this year's Honorary Chapter Degree for his contributions to the Meyersdale FFA. Diest attended the banquet with his wife Mary Ann.

Jason Knotts and Philip Petenbrink both received the Keystone Degree and were honored in the record book competition. Knotts received an award for his record book in beef finishing, while Petenbrink was honored for his record book for his on-farm work over 2,000 hours. Matthew Emerick also received a record book award for his maple syrup production project. Knotts and Petenbrink also won state gold medals in the record book competition.

Matthew Emerick received the Entrepreneurship Award, while other awards went to Knotts for his beef production project, Petenbrink in dairy production, Ken Sanner in ag mechanics, Earl Shaffer in horse judging, and Thomas Sanner as the wildlife contest winner.

"Trust your instincts when selecting colors," Lyden recommends.

Decorate With Confidence

People also want a bit of history preserved in their homes. Antiques and collectibles are incorporated in all decorating styles. Gilded ornamentation adds a lavish touch to formal and contemporary styles.

Lyden believes that wallpaper is a quick and inexpensive way to give a room immediate personalization. She demonstrated how a red and black plaid wallcovering instantly portrays masculinity while a mix of floral patterns shouts femininity.

Studies show that cool colors such as blues and greens soothe people pychologically. Yellow makes people feel upbeat. Purple is the number one accent color this year. Gray is making a comeback but it has more of a taupe color. Shades of brown remain strong. Hydrangea is the most popular flower motif.

When using accessories, mass "like" objects together. Arrange items in uneven numbers. One, three, or five items grouped together are more pleasing to the eye than even numbers of the same object.

Massing plants together in varying heights, textures, and shades makes a stronger statement than scattering one here and there. Group together an array of scented candles in varying heights.

"Family photos are your best accessories. Mass frames of varying sizes together on a tabletop," Lyden said. "You can hang pictures in frames with gold, silver, and wood tones if you use one unifying item, such as a frame that combines silver and gold or a wood carving that adds architectural interest.

"Trust your instincts," Lyden said when selecting color and patterns. "When you see a pattern, you love—buy it."

Often clients who are attracted to bright or bold patterns, don't buy them because they fear they will tire of it. But Lyden said that substituting a bland-appearing piece for an item you love often results in living with colors you don't really like and that don't make your heart sing.

"If you love something at first glance, you will continue to love it," she promised.

When using accessories to accent your home, Lyden said, "Throw it out if you don't love it or if it doesn't serve a useful purpose."

You may not particularly like the looks of the outdated toaster that sits on the kitchen countertop, but if you use it, keep it. On the other hand, those faded silk flowers serve no useful purpose. You don't like them, so throw them away.

"Decorate with confidence," she said. "If you like it, display it — even if it counteracts decorating rules, because rules are made to break and make you look clever."

For more information on free decorating seminars or free consultation with an interior designer, call York Wallcoverings Factory Store at (717) 854-4285.

The different looks achieved in no-sew window treatments are multiple and make an effective backdrop for many different decorating styles.

No Sew Window Treatments

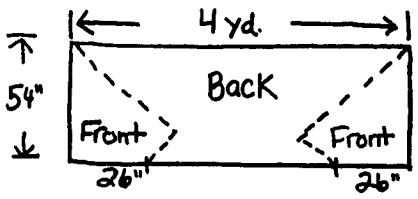
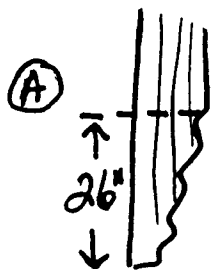
Lay fabric flat with back of fabric facing up and width at top. Bottom and number of yards is left to right.

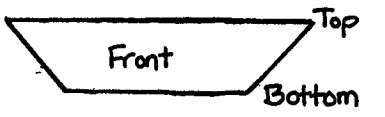


To create taper on sides, determine where you want taper to start, from the bottom up. Measurement "A". Starting at the bottom left corner and the bottom right corner, measure in towards the center and mark the measurement.



Fold fabric beginning with the top left corner and top right corner. Fold only to the point you have marked across the bottom. This will not necessarily form a 45 degree angle.

Iron along dotted line using fusion tape. Turn fabric over, keeping wide side at the top.



Proceed to drape fabric over tulip brackets (keeping wide side at the top. To make rosettes, form a 14-inch loop by pulling up fabric at each side of the window. Close bracket clamp, and arrange the fabric to form a rosette.

Balloon valance over decorative pole: Determine finished length of valance, double and add approximately 18-inches for gathering. Divide by 36-inches to calculate the yardage. To avoid seaming fabric, this treatment is recommended for a window up to 50-inches wide if using 54-inch wide fabric.

Give Furniture And Walls New Life

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

YORK (York Co.) — Do you have a piece of furniture with an ugly finish, but you can't afford to replace it?

Paint it.

Do you wish you have a marble fireplace?

Paint it.

Want a slate floor instead of the dingy vinyl one?

Paint it.

It's that simple for Marla Starkweather who demonstrates how to transform bland looking walls into surfaces such as granite, marble, and leather. Called faux, which means fake, the surfaces take on a new life that gives them the appearance of granite, marble, or leather depending on the painting technique used.

Numerous painting techniques using the same or similar paints can give entirely different appearances. Starkweather and another decorator from York Wallcoverings compared the different techniques at a recent Faux Finishes seminar. Demonstrated were color washing, combing, slate, rag rolling, Tuscan colorwash, dry brush technique, crackling, antique finish, marblizing, granite finishes, sponging, bagging, and smooshing.

Wood, vinyl, and concrete can be made to look like slate by following these directions:

- Clean floor thoroughly.
- Prime entire floor with Aqua Grip or similar product.
- Use flat latex paint in the color of grout to paint entire floor. Allow to dry according to the recommended time.
- Lightly sponge on flat latex paint in a sandy color over entire floor to give texture. Allow to dry.

Marla Starkweather gives furniture and walls a rebirth by marbelizing or painting with other faux finishes.

- Tear off strips of removeable paint tape and tear edges to give an uneven look. Place the tape on the floor in a pattern that imitates slate.
- Paint surface with light gray latex floor and porch paint. Do not remove tape.
- Mix one part of dark gre alkyd floor and proch paint with five parts alkyd glazing liquid.
- Roll glazing mixture over the surface of the floor (only doing an area that you can complete in 15 minutes).
- Take pieces of cling wrap and lay it on the glaze mixture. Smoosh the cling wrap around, continue putting down cling wrap until area is covered. Then piece by piece remove the cling wrap and the tape.
- Allow surface to dry (whatever is recommended on paint can).
- Apply several coats of polyurethane for durability.

A free seminar on Faux Finshes is scheduled at York Wallcoverings Factory Store, 201 Carlisle Ave., York, for Wednesday, May 10, 7 p.m. To register, call (717) 854-4285.

Kernel Of Skill Needed To Grow Sweet Corn

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Driving around Pennsylvania's back roads to find the perfect ear of sweet corn practically qualifies as a state sport, but a vegetable expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences says backyard gardeners also can grow sweet and tasty ears without much trouble.

'Many sweet corn varieties are resistant to most major corn diseases," says Pete Ferretti, professor of vegetable crops.

All sweet corn varieties are grown from seed and can be planted in most of Pennsylvania from about May 15 to July 1, depending upon whether varieties are early-season or late-season. To enjoy sweet corn throughout the growing season, gardeners should make multiple plantings of early, main season and late-maturing varieties.

Ferretti recommends dedicating at least a 5-foot by 5-foot square of soil for corn, a plot capable of producing about 16 corn plants or around 30 edible ears. "A square plot is ideal because corn is pollinated by the wind and plants are more likely to receive adequate wind flow in a square than in a long row," he explains.

Seeds should be planted 1 inch deep about every 4 inches in rows 16 inches apart. As the plants appear, Ferretti recommends pulling out the less vigorous plants. "Ideally, you should have about 16 inches of space between each remaining plant, which allows for good pollination and space to grow."

Ferretti says corn attracts a wide variety of pests, including corn borers, corn earworms, armyworms, Japanese beetles and corn rootworms. Home gardeners can use Sevin, an all-purpose garden insecticide, or cover the crop with fine mesh row covers. "The row covers will have to be removed when corn tassels appear so the plants can pollinate," he explains. "In a small plot, most people can control pests by walking through and removing insects — unless your plot is next to a farmer's giant cornfield."

Thanks to Mahlon Horning, East Earl, who writes an ornamental sundial can be purchased from J.B. Zimmerman Hardware, Blue Ball. Phone (717) 354-4955. However, if you expect it to be accurate, it should be built for your exact latitude; also for sun time, not standard time. You need a chart to convert the reading. M.H. said he will be happy to discuss this by phone. Call him at (717) 445-5911.

ANSWER — A Muncy reader wrote that in an old Bible with the marriage listing of John Lehman and Esther Rohrer, Nov. 14, 1837, he found a 1906 tax receipt made out to Henry Knause by C.S. Miller tax collector for Upper Milford Township, Lehigh County. The reader wanted to know if the tax receipt has any value and who would want to buy something like that. Thanks to Richard Knouse, Liverpool, for writing that he does not know if the receipt has monetary value, but he has information on the family descendants of Henry. If no one wants to buy it, Knouse would like to place the receipt with other information he has on the family. Knause was born in 2/4/1867 in Upper Milford Township, Lehigh Co., Pa. He was a coach maker and married Alice Diefenderfer. In 1893, theymoved to Emaus and opened a store. In 1908, he built a new store and dwelling. He was also director of Emaus National Bank. They had two children, Vermond and Roy Aldon.

ANSWER — Gladys Stephens wants to thank the many readers who sent calendars, postcards, pencils, vehicle license plates, and odds and ends that kids enjoy. The response was overwhelming and the outpouring of love for these children from so many is unbelievable. She appreciates all the efforts.

ANSWER — Miriam Kessler wanted someone who collects old greeting cards and cancelled stamps to use in projects for nursing homes, schools, scouts or 4-H. Thanks to Ada Zook, who writes that her aunt collects them for a needy lady who can exchange them for food. Send to Ada B. Zook, 8 Green Tree Rd., Quarryville, PA 17566.

ANSWER — Robert Fleckenstein of Bob's Radiator Repair wanted a ceramic soap dish for a tile wall. Thanks to Pat Sweetman for recommending a source: Architectural Warehouse, York.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know how to get rid of silver fish that have invaded a reader's whole house including closets and drawers? Thanks to Pat Sweetman for writing that silver fish can be elimated without chemicals by using the herb patchouli. Silver fish, she writes, hate the smell of patchouli, which can be put into potpourri packets and placed in strategic places.

ANSWER — Miriam Kessler wanted to know the process for making fragrant and essential oils for potpourri using fresh flowers such as roses, lavendars, and fruit rinds. Pat Sweetman, Stone Haus Herbs, writes that she seriously doubts that fragrant and essential oils can be created at home without expensive equipment. Fragrance oils are chemically created to smell like fruits or flowers or a combination. They do not hold their scent as long as essential oils, which are very concentrated oils pressed from plants and flowers. Sweetman writes that the only essential oil that is not pressed is lavender oil, which is created by combining water and lavendar flowers, distilling the flowers and collecting the oil floating on the top of the distilled water. Pat doubts if Ms. Kessler grows enough flowers required for this method. Pat recommends growing Provence or Grosso. Although the flowers do not dry as pretty as lavenders, the oil content is very good.

For personal scented oil to use on skin, infuse highly scented flower petals in almond or jojoba oil. This method is not as concentrated enough for potpourri use as it would create a sticky mess to attain the aromic scent.

ANSWER — A South Carolina reader writes that she has the book "Aunt Nan and the Miller Five," which had been requested. Call her at (803) 564-5775.

This barn is stopping traffic. The farm scene is painted on the barn of Blaise Liffick and Alanna Berger, 680 Cloverleaf Rd., Elizabethtown. Learn the story behind the scene on Sat. May 6, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., when artist Wayne Fettro unveils the mural. "Harvesttime in the 1920s," features a 1920's steam engine owned by a farmer in the Rheems area. The original steam engine and model replicas also will be displayed, and light refreshments served by the Hornafius Insurance Agency.

Research Predicts Pest Emergences

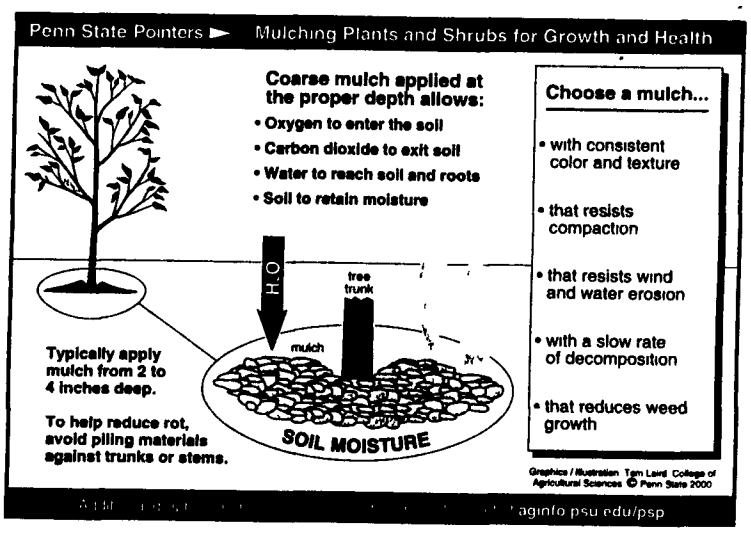
WOOSTER, Ohio — An Ohio State University scientist has developed a "biological calendar" that predicts the emergence of tree and shrub pests, and thus the best time to spray for control, based on the blooming of ornamental plants.

The calendar shows, for example, that European pine sawfly eggs hatch at the same time as first bloom in PJM rhododendron, and gypsy moths hatch at full bloom in Spring Snow crabapple.

Dan Herms said the research can help nursery managers and gardeners make fewer but more effective pesticide applications. Furthermore, it can help them switch from long-lasting pesticides, which may soon be limited by new federal regulations, to shorter-lived "biorational" types.



Penn State Pointers ► Mulching Plants and Shrubs for Growth and Health
Coarse mulch applied at the proper depth allows:
• Oxygen to enter the soil
• Carbon dioxide to exit soil
• Water to reach soil and roots
• Soil to retain moisture
Choose a mulch...
• with consistent color and texture
• that resists compaction
• that resists wind and water erosion
• with a slow rate of decomposition
• that reduces weed growth
Typically apply mulch from 2 to 4 inches deep.
To help reduce rot, avoid piling materials against trunks or stems.

District Sets Stream Bank Fencing Tour June 20

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — On Tuesday, June 20, the Dauphin County Conservation District will conduct a stream bank fencing tour, designed to provide farms with information about installing, maintaining, and the benefits of stream bank fencing.

Any industry service representative, farmer, or interested party in Dauphin County and the surrounding area are welcome to attend.

The Dauphin County Conservation District, Dauphin County Cooperative Extension, Dauphin County NRCS, Schuylkill County Conservation District, and Northumberland County Conservation District are coordinating this event.

Stream bank fencing is a simple, effective way farmers can improve the water quality of the streams flowing through their farms. Restricting livestock and horses from pasture streams can be an effective part of your livestock and pasture management program.

Stream bank fencing is a low-cost, low-maintenance farm management tool that can provide many benefits to both the farmer and the environment. These benefits range from protecting herd health and cleaner animals to environmental and water quality improvements.

The tour group will visit three farms in the Berrysburg area. The first farm, G&L Twin Farm, installed their stream bank fencing last summer and the plantings were installed in April of this year. The second farm, Schade Farm, installed their stream bank fencing and plantings approximately 10-12 years ago. And the final farm, the Fisher Family Farm, installed their stream bank fencing and plantings approximately three years ago.

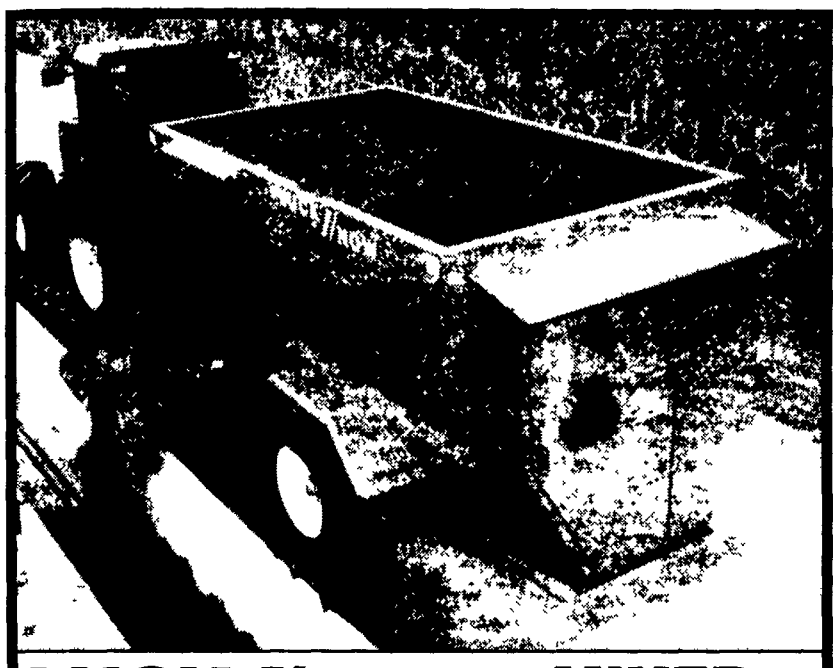
At each of these farms, tour group members will be able to see the advantages of installing stream bank fencing and see the progression of the various planting. Other topics that will be covered on this tour include stream crossings and spring development, the health benefit of keeping livestock out of the stream, construction of stream bank fencing, the benefits of milk quality when cattle are kept out of the stream, voluntary nutrient management plans and the benefits to livestock producers and others.

The tour will begin at 10 a.m. and end at approximately 2 p.m. Lunch will be provided at no cost to those attending. Transportation to the three farms will be available.

There will be shuttle service available to pick up and drop off interested parties in northern Dauphin County. Call for more details.

For those not needing the shuttle service, meet at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Berrysburg, at 9:30 a.m.

For more information, contact the Dauphin County Conservation District at (717) 921-8100. Preregistration is required by Friday, June 16.



LUCK//NOW MIXER FEEDERS
"P" SERIES

Since 1979 LUCK//NOW Mixer Feeders have been recognized as one of the most dependable and strongest built mixers in the field.

To enhance its existing line of Mixer Feeders LUCK//NOW introduces the "P" Series of Mixer Feeders with six models ranging in size from the Model 300 with a mixing capacity of 310 cubic ft., to the Model 900 with a mixing capacity of 900 cubic ft.

The Large diameter augers in all the "P" Series Mixer feeders are capable of giving the mix required, from rations with well cured, long stemmed legume-type hay, to mixes with green grass, and mixes with silage and commodities. Better milk production, better weight gains and greatly improved animal health are just some of the results of a finely-tuned feed ration.

Cochran Fund Offers Scholarships For Forestry Education

YOUNGSVILLE (Warren Co.) — The Sandy Cochran Memorial Fund is seeking applications from students pursing a two-year or four-year degree in the field of forestry.

Applicants should demonstrate a passion for their career choice, a strong land ethic, and a commitment to the ideals of forest stewardship. High priority will be given to students from northwestern Pennsylvania and southwestern New York.

The Cochran Fund was established in memory of Roe ("Sandy") Cochran, a former Penn State forestry extension agent.

According to Ken Kane, committee member and a consulting forester from Kane, "Cochran was widely known and respected. He stressed the importance of continuing education and research-based knowledge. Cochran worked with everyone in the forest industry, from independent loggers and mill operators to those involved in forestry education at the local, state, and national levels."

Applications and additional information can be obtained from The Sandy Cochran Memorial Fund, in care of Penn State Cooperative Extension, 609 Rouse Avenue, Suite 200, Youngsville, PA 16371. You may also call Adam Downing at (814) 563-9388 or Susan Stout at (814) 563-1040. Deadline for submission is June 15, 2000. Scholarship winners will be awarded in time for the 2000-2001 academic year beginning this fall.

The Krause 5250 PRO-System no-till drill is ideal for either no-till or conventional planting. Featuring the patented Precision Residue Opener, the Krause 5250 no-till drill delivers the most accurate seed depth control available. That's because the Krause 5250 no-till drill has a 3"x13" depth gauging wheel in front of a double-disc opener, followed by an adjustable depth press wheel.
The result? Seed depth control no other drill can beat.

EXCLUSIVE SHEARBAR PROTECTION COLLISION INSURANCE

Shearhubs, an exclusive John Deere feature, are standard equipment on all rotary MoCo's. Should the cutterbar receive a severe impact - from a rock, tree stump, or worse - the hub sears, protecting the inner gears. A shearhub costs about $40 to replace, and can be carried in the field. Compare that to the cost of repairing or replacing a complete cutterbar assembly on another machine. Then visit us for details. We can help make sure you're covered.

Committed to Excellence in Animal Nutrition

UltraBALANCE™ 2000

The UltraBALANCE 2000 feed line incorporates the last five years of protein, amino acid and carbohydrate research conducted at Consolidated Nutrition. Research data from dozens of studies have been reviewed in the process of developing the formulations for the new UltraBALANCE complete feeds.

Our goal is to continue to provide value-added feeds that are designed to optimize income over feed costs. UltraBALANCE 2000 feeds address many of the current concepts related to optimizing rumen function, both from the standpoint of protein and carbohydrate nutrition. UltraBALANCE 2000 feeds are designed to optimize the flow of essential amino acids to the small intestine.

UltraBALANCE 2000 feeds are a complete source of fermentable carbohydrates, protein and amino acids, minerals and vitamins, and are designed to be fed in conjunction with high quality forage programs.

Deere Builds 300,000th Tractor At Augusta Facility

John Deere completed its 300,000th tractor at its Augusta, Ga., manufacturing facility. The 300,000th tractor to roll off the assembly line was a 4400 Compact Utility Tractor.

AUGUSTA, Ga. — John Deere Worldwide Commercial and Consumer Equipment Division recently completed work on its 300,000th tractor here at its manufacturing facility.

The 300,000th tractor off the production line was a model 4400 hydrostatic-drive compact utility tractor. The compact tractor count includes all models assembled at the division's Horicon facilities in Wisconsin and at the Augusta facility.

Production of utility tractors began in 1978 with the 850 and 950 models. Ten years later, John Deere produced its 100,000th tractor and, only eight years later, production numbers reached 200,000. It took only five years to surpass the 300,000 mark.

"While 300,000 tractors is a considerable milestone, I think that producing 100,000 tractors in just five years is even more significant because it demonstrates the popularity of our designs and the rapid strides we're making in meeting customer needs and increasing market share," said Paul Meyer, general manager, John Deere commercial products.

Vets Plus Adds Prebiotics To Nutrition Capsules

KNAPP, Wis. — Vets Plus, Inc. has announced that the company's T.D.N. Rockets™ and T.D.N. Mini Rockets™ contain a new ingredient, Prebiotics.

T.D.N. Rockets™ are nutrition capsules designed for use in adult cattle, and the T.D.N. Mini Rockets™ are also a nutrition capsule but in a smaller size and specifically formulated for use in calves, sheep, and goats.

The quick dissolving gelatin capsules now contain the prebiotic, fructooligosaccharides (FOS), which help the probiotics work even better. Prebiotics are ingredients that promote the growth of probiotics, therefore making them even more useful.

The prebiotic fructooligosaccharides (FOS) provides an energy source for the probiotics so they survive in the intestinal tract even longer. Fructooligosaccharides (FOS) have no side effects, they are just a medium chain carbohydrate molecule, which is broken down into glucose molecules for use by the probiotics.

It has been shown that FOS stimulates beneficial Lactobacillus acidophilus bacteria, a major ingredient in the T.D.N. Rockets™ and Mini Rockets™. FOS also reduces pathogenic bacteria such as Salmonella and E. coli. The beneficial bacteria quickly ferment FOS to form short chain fatty acids such as butyrate and propionate, which are essential for healthy functioning of the large intestine.

FOS has been shown to increase the uptake of vitamins and minerals such as calcium and magnesium, as well as improving weight gain and reducing fecal odor.

Novartis Seeds, Aventis CropScience Settle Litigation

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Novartis Seeds and Aventis CropScience announced settlement of three lawsuits.

As part of the agreement, the companies will work cooperatively to promote the use of Aventis' Liberty® herbicide on Novartis NK® brand insect resistant corn seed hybrids.

The agreement resolves lawsuits, filed by a subsidiary of Aventis, to enforce patents that cover the insect protection technology in NK® Bt corn hybrids, and a lawsuit, filed by Novartis Seeds, alleging breach of an agreement relating to that technology. The Novartis corn products that were the subject of the lawsuits also contain a gene that makes the corn tolerant to Liberty herbicide.

Under the agreement, Novartis and Aventis will work together closely to promote Novartis corn products with the YieldGard® insect resistance and LibertyLink® herbicide tolerance traits. In addition, the two companies will work cooperatively to optimize the use of Liberty herbicide on these varieties of corn.

"As the leading company in the development and marketing of corn products providing both insect protection and tolerance to Liberty herbicide, we are pleased that Novartis Seeds and its distributors can now promote the use of Liberty herbicide on our YieldGard Bt corn hybrids," said Ed Shonsey, CEO of Novartis Seeds, Inc. "This allows our customers to gain maximum benefit from the insect resistance and LibertyLink qualities of the seed.

"This is definitely a win-win for both companies - and our customers," Shonsey continued. "Farmers are extremely pleased with the performance of Bt corn for corn borer control. The LibertyLink feature expands their weed control options as well."

"What this settlement means is that these solid-performing LibertyLink Novartis corn products will continue to be available to growers without the potential for disruption or ongoing dispute," said Walter Dannigkeit, Global Head of Aventis Seed and Crop Improvement. "Growers can continue to confidently spray these hybrids with Liberty herbicide and to enjoy the benefits of both excellent weed control and insect protection."

As part of the agreement, the companies said that the LibertyLink logo will appear on all newly bagged or rebagged Novartis corn seed containing these herbicide and insect resistant traits as well as in promotional advertising. The companies also will work cooperatively at field days, farmer meetings, and elsewhere to promote the LibertyLink and insect resistance attributes of the seed.

Corn Growers' Early Prediction On GMO-Planted Acres Upheld By USDA Survey

TULSA, Okla. — USDA results showing a 25 percent drop in genetically modified (GMO) planted acres for 2000 planting season upholds the prediction made by the American Corn Growers Association (ACGA) last August. At that time, the ACGA forecast a 20 percent to 25 percent drop in acres planted to GMOs.

"From the beginning, the ACGA believed that when final planting decisions were made, farmers would look at the uncertainty surrounding the marketability, segregation and liability of GMOs and plant convention seeds," said Gary Goldberg, chief executive officer of the ACGA. "The USDA survey shows we are right."

Through a special effort called the Farmer Choice-Customer First Program, the ACGA has provided and continues to provide unbiased, straightforward, objective and honest information about biotechnology. The ACGA trusts farmers to make their own decisions on what seeds to purchase and plant based on what works for their individual operation. Clearly, more and more farmers believe that non-GMO, conventional seed will work best.

"America's farmers understand that under this current farm program we are told to grow for the marketplace. Nowhere is the marketplace requested GMOs" said Goldberg.

With more than 75 percent of this coming year's corn crop being planted to non-GMO, conventional seeds, that is the product the U.S. needs to advocate for export markets. Instead of pushing the small percentage planted to GMO's it will be convention crops that feed a hungry world and meet our customer demands. The ACGA encourages USDA, USTR, US Grains Council, and grain exporters to heed the call for conventional products and stop pushing GMOs which are making up a shrinking minority of total US production.

EPA Approves Plan To Assess Drinking Water Sources

PHILADELPHIA — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has approved a new drinking water assessment program for Pennsylvania that will evaluate the potential for a community's drinking water supply to become contaminated. Assessments will look at both surface and groundwater sources.

The program, entitled the Source Water Assessment Program, is required by the Safe Drinking Water Act.

If a drinking water source were to be contaminated, a community might have to develop a new source which could be complicated and costly. Drinking water can be contaminated by many everyday activities, including agricultural and urban runoff, leaking underground storage tanks, oil spills or failing septic systems.

Assessments will provide information to water suppliers and their customers to help plan for the future and protect sensitive drinking water sources.

"The goal of the program is to empower communities to protect their drinking water. We hope that the assessments will greatly increase public awareness of potential drinking water impacts made by the way we live on the land. We believe this awareness will motivate communities to protect this valuable and vulnerable resource," said EPA Regional Administrator Bradley Campbell.

Over the next three and a half years, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection will be conducting assessments for more than 14,000 sources of drinking water in the commonwealth.

The agency will use existing information about water quality, land use, and facilities that have the potential for contaminating water to conduct the assessments. For larger public water systems, the agency will hold local meetings to obtain additional information.

Watershed-by-watershed, source water assessments will identify the area contributing water to a well or intake (which is called the source water protection area), inventory potential sources of contamination within the source water protection area, and determine how susceptible the source water is to possible contamination.

Once an assessment is completed, consumers will be notified in through annual consumer confidence reports. The consumer confidence report provides users of a community water system a report card on the quality of their drinking water, its source, and protection efforts. In addition, DEP will be tracking its progress on their website (www.dep.state.pa) and providing copies of the assessments in locally accessible facilities such as the county library or health department.

Although the source water assessment program focuses on public water supplies, it can also benefit residents using private water supplies because they will now have access to more information about the quality of the water in their local watershed.

In the mid-Atlantic region, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware, and Maryland all have EPA-approved plans for drinking water assessment programs.

Awards will also be presented to recipients of the NAAB Distinguished Service Award, Member Association Director Award, Pioneer Award, and the Research Award.

USDA Web Site Lists U.S. Exporters Of Food, Fish

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In its continuing campaign to increase U.S. farm exports, the USDA recently unveiled a new Website that provides foreign buyers with contact information of U.S. suppliers of food, fish, fiber, and forest products.

The online directory, http://www.fas.usda.gov/buying.html, breaks down U.S. companies by their location, type of firm, the products they offer, and the countries they serve.

The USDA said the Website will be especially helpful to small- to medium-sized firms that otherwise might not get the exposure they need to benefit from export markets.

"I'm pleased with how quickly it mixes."
-Herbert Benner, Gap, PA

"Our Roto-Mix mixer from Lapp's Barn Equipment processes dry baled hay real well. I can feed the TMR through my Weaverline Feed Cart without the hay wrapping around the augers.

"We have fewer off-feed problems, and the mixer helps us get constant milk production. It's also a good management tool because it allows me to keep more accurate feed cost records."

Herbert Benner is presently milking 50 cows in a tie stall barn.
- Owned Roto-Mix 184 stationary mixer from Lapp's since 1998
- Increased milk production averages 5 to 6 lbs. per cow
- 22,000 lb. herd average
- Ration: corn silage, haylage, cotton seed, 1 to 2 bales of hay.

New Products Now Available...

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP
This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable. Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high by-pass protein into diets that require a lower fat level.

GOLDEN MEAL 40
An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL
A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. A natural alternative to animal fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products. We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

FOUR SIMPLE STEPS TO SUCCESS

Farm For Profit Step 1
SOIL MANAGEMENT

ACHIEVE
- Contains nutrients and feeders which aid in sustaining microorganisms in the soil

REMEDY
- Contains nutrients and micronutrients which aid in sustaining microorganisms in the soil

TANK MIXING
STEP 2 PLANT NUTRITION
& STEP 1
We have found be adding 12 8 oz. of Remedy and a small amount of Achieve per acre to the recommended amount of Farm For Profit Step 2 True Solution Starter Fertilizer and applying directly on the seed or in the seed cradle we got outstanding results.

Farm For Profit Step 2
PLANT NUTRITION

FARM FOR PROFIT TRUE SOLUTION STARTER FERTILIZER
- Near neutral pH
- 100% available
- Root zone placement
- Low salt index
- Foliar Feeding

Farm For Profit has established their own standard for quality. Unlike many liquid fertilizers Farm For Profit True Solution Starter Fertilizer is a solution. It is not just particles suspended in liquid. Each drop contains the exact N-P-K ratio of the standard formulation. Farm For Profit liquid fertilizer is consistent and stable and won't settle out. It handles easily. It can be stored indefinitely. When it is applied, it flows evenly and cleanly. Farm For Profit True Solution Starter Fertilizer meets our standard for quality.

Farm For Profit Step 3
VEGETABLE OIL

1. Encapsulates the chemical
2. Helps generate uniform droplet size
3. Greatly reduces chemical evaporation
4. Reduces chemical drift
5. Increases the coverage because of its spreading and sticking ability
6. Reduces chemical wash off
7. Gives you better control of the chemicals

One of Farm For Profit's main concerns is the level of soil and water pollution found today. Our goal is to remove as much petroleum base material and farm chemical from the soil as possible. Farm For Profit Step 3 Vegetable Oil gives us a means to reduce the level of both petroleum base materials and farm chemicals.

Farm For Profit Step 4
TRAINED FIELD PERSONNEL

The Farm For Profit Authorized Distributor or Dealer in Your Area Will
- Explain the total Farm For Profit program to you
- Explain the best fertilizer program for your operation
- Suggest ways to improve the efficiency of your chemical program
- Explain to you what other farmers have been doing to cut their operating expenses while maintaining or increasing their production output

Farmers Helping Farmers
That's what Farm For Profit is all about!

PURINA DAIRY HERD PROFILE

HORIZON ORGANIC DAIRY

Horizon Organic is an organic dairy located in Kent County, Maryland. Horizon Organic uses Purina Calf Starter from Woodstown Ice and Coal, Woodstown, N.J.

Throughout the first year living at Horizon Organic, calves and heifers can be raised on conventional commercial feed. After that, according to organic certification standards, the animals must be raised only on certified organic feed.

Luke Howard, outside and parlor manager at Horizon Organic, chooses initially to feed his calves on Purina Calf Starter on the farm. "I've tried many different kinds of feed and nothing compares to Purina's performance," said Howard.

Horizon Organic's Al Sallaway takes care of the calves. Al said that calves show good growth and weight gain during the last three weeks on the Starter. At Horizon Organic, calves are fed starter for the first two months and then are graduated to Purina Commercial Starter/Grower.
